

Plotted How To Sabotage

'Undercover' Man
Testifies as to
It by Reds in World War II

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith
WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—A Senate committee has sworn testimony that even during World War II, when Russia was America's ally, the Communist "high command" was plotting how to sabotage this country's production arsenals in event of war anytime between the two nations.

John J. Huber of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who said he had served as an undercover agent for the FBI, gave the testimony. Taken behind closed doors last September, it was made public tonight by Senator McCarran (D-Nev.).

The Nevada lawmaker is chairman of a Senate judiciary subcommittee which has been studying legislation designed to bar subversive aliens from the United States and to deport any already here.

Huber told the subcommittee he joined the Communist party in 1937 at the request of the FBI, which he said asked him to report on Communist activities. The request came, Huber added, after he told the FBI that some of his fellow workers in the old WPA were Communist party members whose friendship he agreed to cultivate.

Huber said he remained a member of the party "until the middle part of 1947, at which time I ceased my work with the FBI of my own volition."

"Dangerous Organization" The witness, whose present occupation was not stated, testified that the Communist party of the United States "is the most dangerous and vicious organization" ever to exist in this country and that it takes its orders direct from Moscow.

Huber said that late in 1944 and early in 1945, while the war was still going on, "the Communist party high command ordered us to concentrate on foreign language groups" in this country.

"As we were told," he continued, "the purpose of this concentration was to get Communist party units and Communist party fronts set up in industrial sections of the country."

Asked by a committee investigator why industrial areas were selected, Huber replied: "The purpose was, of course, to have a powerful party hold where they could do the most damage to the United States. In industrial areas they could organize and lead very damaging strikes, strikes that could ruin us."

"Then, in case of war with Russia, they could break down our war production, our ability to make armaments, both by strikes or slowdowns, both by sabotage. It is a very dangerous situation, which has to be controlled or there will be serious trouble for us."

He added that in connection with that work the party controlled "very active" foreign-language newspapers in Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, New York and many other industrial centers.

Declares 'Guy Is Liar'
Huber also told the subcommittee that:

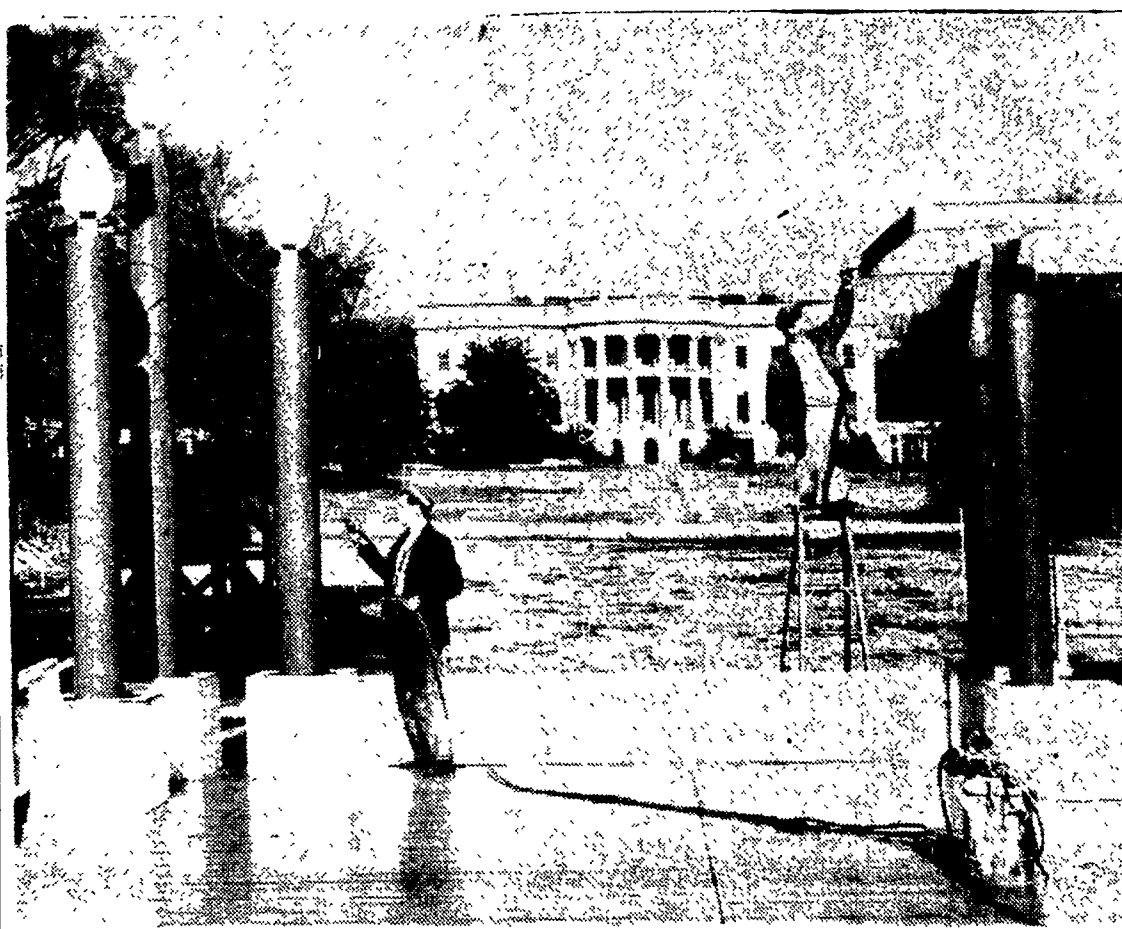

1. William S. Gailmor of New York, described as having been a radio commentator, is a Communist, and that he believes Gailmor's real surname is Margolis. In reply to a question, Huber said the man participated as a money-raiser in Henry A. Wallace's unsuccessful bid for the presidency on the Progressive party ticket last year.

(At his home in Ossining, N. Y., Gailmor asserted "the guy is a liar. The only part of his statement that's true is that I participated in the Henry Wallace campaign.")

2. In the field of education, "there are several hundred members of the Communist party who are teaching the children of New York City in our public schools."

3. Communist front organizations in this country are increasing (Please turn to Page 4, Column 1)

Split Looms By Chinese Reds - Moscow

Manchuria Control
An Issue of Major Importance

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—High American officials are convinced that a split is developing between Communist China and Moscow over control of Manchuria.

They expressed belief today that this is probably an issue of major importance in the current Moscow talks of Generalissimo Stalin and Chinese Red leader Mao Tse-tung. It is also regarded here as a point of tremendous value in the shaping of a new American policy for fighting Russian-directed Communism throughout the Far East, including China.

For while American policy makers believe that Mao and Stalin will do everything possible to minimize the effects of their national conflict of interests in Manchuria, they also believe that the split will get wider.

Mao's Moscow trip is viewed here as being well-timed to provide a close Russian-Chinese study of several vital problems with which the Russian-Communist world of the Far East is now confronted as a result of Mao's conquest of all China.

Still Working For Academy

Noel Tweet, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, who is in Washington in the interest of the United States Air Force Academy, located at SAAF notified John F. Zander, secretary of the C. of C. Saturday, he would remain in Washington over the week-end. Tweet has several important appointments for Monday.

Tweet has already presented a brochure to the Air Force Academy Site Committee on behalf of Sedalia and the Sedalia Army Air Field, south of Knob Noster.

In his telephone conversation he notified Zander the U. S. Army engineers would make an inspection of the properties sometime in the near future. The inspection is to be under the Regional Command of the Engineers at Omaha.

Blind Young Man Happy in Work, Sponsored by Lions

"If you've ever gotten up in the middle of the night trying to feel your way around looking for a light switch, then you know how a blind man is confronted with moving around, only the light switch doesn't do him any good," is the simple way Joseph W. Elliott put it the other day.

"Joe," as he is better known to his friends, was born blind 26 years ago in Kansas City, but he doesn't let this handicap bother him, at least one wouldn't think so, because he always has a friendly greeting for his customers, who purchase candy bars, cigarettes, etc., at his concession stand, in the Sedalia Post Office building.

Elliott has only lived in Sedalia since September 7, and already is calling this city his second home simply because, he says, there never were more friendly people than Sedalians. He resides at 503 East Fifth street with Mr. and Mrs. C. Van Jones.

Fence Post Ablaze At Stockyards

A burning fence post at the M-K-T Stockyards was the cause of a fire alarm, Saturday afternoon at 5:13 o'clock. Two fire trucks made the run. Firemen extinguished the blaze, which caused no damage, with two pump buckets.

Jim Dudley of Warrensburg turned in the alarm. He said the blaze was very visible, and horses penned in near the burning post were frightened.

Firemen believed the blaze started from a carelessly thrown lighted cigarette.

Report of Bar Committee

Two Lawyers Were Disbarred and Four Suspended

The annual report of the general chairman of Missouri bar committee and of the advisory committee of the Missouri Bar administration was filed in the supreme court of Missouri, late Thursday by Fred B. Hulse of Sedalia, who is the general chairman.

The report discloses that during the year ending November 1, 1949, four Missouri lawyers were suspended for terms ranging from 30 days to one year. Two lawyers were disbarred outright while court reprimands were issued to three others.

One lawyer, a former circuit judge of Monett surrendered his license to practice law. There were still pending in the courts disciplinary proceedings against two other lawyers of this state.

The report shows 49 complaints pending before the advisory committee. During the year the advisory committee continued to receive, investigate, approve and issue certificates to applicants for exemption from the payment of the annual attorney enrollment fee as provided by rule 6.01, because aid applicants, members of the bar of the state of Missouri, had been licensed to practice in this state for fifty years or more, and had reached the age of seventy-five years.

Members of the advisory committee are Fred B. Hulse, general chairman, John C. Grover, O. W. Watkins, James M. Reeves and Chelsea O. Inman.

Battle Lines Tighten in the Coal Dispute

Soft Coal Supply
Declared Nearing
The 'Crisis Stage'

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17—(AP)—Battle lines were drawn tighter today in John L. Lewis drawn-out dispute with the coal industry.

In rapid fire order, there were these developments:

1. An industry spokesman said the soft coal supply in the heavily industrialized Pittsburgh area is "rapidly approaching the crisis stage."

2. Lawrence E. Tierney Jr., president of the Eastern Coal Corporation, said at Bluefield, Va., his company is "not going to pay" the royalty payments to the United Mine Workers' health and welfare fund. They're due next Tuesday.

3. A UMW spokesman at Harlan, Ky., said he "wouldn't be surprised" if mine operators in Harlan county, Kentucky's largest coal producing county, start signing UMW contracts within 10 days.

The picture, as always, is clouded and uneasy. Lewis isn't commenting. He's trying to split the industry by getting independent operators to break away from the industry leaders.

Lewis has signed a few independent operators to contracts calling for a 95-cent-a-day wage boost and a 15-cent tonnage increase in the royalty payments. That would make the miners' daily basic wage $15 and the royalty payments 35 cents a ton.

UMW sources say operators representing about eight per cent of the national tonnage have signed contracts to replace the one which ran out last June 30. Industry sources dispute that.

There are fears in some circles Lewis may call another strike early in the year to enforce his demands.

Western Pennsylvania operators and apparently most western and northern soft coal producers are sitting tight. But they've indicated they will make the royalty payments due next week.

Report Premier Yen Resigns

TAIPEH, Formosa, Dec. 17—(AP)—Resignation of Yen Hsin-Shan as premier of Nationalist China was reported tonight by a reliable source.

If accepted, his retirement is expected to mark a sweeping change in government personnel with the aim of wooing new American support against the rampant Communists.

(Resignation of Yen also would weaken the connections of acting president Li Tsung-jen, now in New York for treatment of an ulcer.)

(Li appointed Yen Premier last June, and upon leaving China a fortnight ago he designated Yen to handle the presidential duties. Thus if Yen is out, it means that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is back in the saddle more firmly than at any time since he "retired" as president last January.)

One Killed; Two Injured in Collision

SLATER, Mo., Dec. 17—(AP)—Mrs. Maude Bridges, 65, of Slater, was fatally injured today in the collision of an automobile and a truck.

Her husband, L. C. Bridges, 71, driver of the car and Lawrence P. Jeffries, 26, of Slater, driver of the truck, were injured in the crash. They are in Marshall, Mo., hospital. Bridges has head, chest and hand injuries. Jeffries suffered broken ribs and head lacerations.

The collision occurred two and one-half miles southwest of Slater on Highway 240.

Mrs. Bridges died shortly after being admitted to the hospital at Marshall.

'Inspector' is Held in Jail

Ex-Convict Used
A Counterfeit Money Ruse.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17—(AP)—Jesse H. Russell is in jail tonight, stripped of his gold badge and his self-conferred title of "Inspector O'Malley of the Postoffice Department."

Police arrested the 45-year-old ex-convict today and a little later Police Lieutenant Alvin E. Hymer said he had signed a statement that he had bilked some 15 elderly persons by using the counterfeit money ruse.

His method of operating, Lieutenant Hymer said, was this:

He would stop some elderly persons, flash his badge and ask to see their currency with the explanation that he was checking for counterfeit bills. He would examine the bills and pretend to be uncertain as to their origin.

Then explaining that he would have to be certain he would have to take the money to headquarters. Headquarters, police said, was Russell's pockets.

One woman reported, police said, that the "Inspector" had taken her life savings of $3,750 after a marriage proposal.

Russell, who served two terms in the Missouri state prison for robbery, one in Colorado for a confidence game, one in Indiana or grand larceny and one in the federal penitentiary for theft and forgery of government bonds, will be turned over to federal authorities.

Rebuilt Gun Kills Playmate

GRANBY, Mo., Dec. 17—(AP)—Pride of an 11-year-old Granby boy in his craftsmanship in converting a rusty .22-caliber rifle into a "pistol" changed to remorse this afternoon when, in demonstrating his weapon, he accidentally shot and fatally wounded a 12-year-old playmate.

The dead boy, Willard Hopper, was struck in the stomach and died 15 minutes later in Granby hospital.

The rifle, with a plugged barrel, was obtained yesterday by John Douthitt, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Douthitt of Granby in a trade for a hunting knife. Unable to unplug the barrel, the boy decided to make it a pistol. He removed the stock and sawed off the barrel to a length of two and a half inches.

This afternoon he proudly told four companions of his pistol and took them to the basement of his home to demonstrate it. When he was unable to insert a cartridge into the breach with his fingers, he pounded on the shell with a pair of pliers. The cartridge exploded and the bullet struck young Hopper. The boy opened his shirt to view the wound and then fell into the arms of his brother, Howard, 14.

Willard Hopper is survived by his parents and five brothers and sisters.

Cleveland Has A $250,000 Fire

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17—(AP)—A disastrous central market fire was brought under control tonight after causing damage which a battalion chief estimated at about $250,000.

First of five alarms came at 9:02 p. m. in the hour and three-quarters that followed before the flames were checked, three firemen were slightly burned and a pumper was destroyed.

The historic central market building, is located about one-fourth mile south and a little east of public square. Most of the damage figure estimate, made by battalion chief Bernard W. Mulcahy, involved water and fire damage to other buildings in the vicinity.

Cause of the fire had not been determined officially, but the Frank Vanario, 30, owner of a nearby cafe, said he saw trash burning in an ash can and the fire reaching a wooden support of the 93-year-old frame market building.

Tribute to Wrights on Anniversary

Observance on World Dominion
Over the Air

KITTY HAWKS, N. C., Dec. 17—(AP)—A grateful nation today remembered the Wright brothers on the 46th anniversary of the flight that gave the world dominion over the air.

A host of national government and aviation officials joined residents of this tiny, isolated community in special ceremonies commemorating the history-making flight. They paid tribute to Wilbur and Orville Wright around the monument that marks their flight atop lonely, windswept Kill Devil hill on North Carolina's outer banks.

The air force and the postoffice stepped in to make airmail history for the occasion. They shot a letter to Dayton, O., the home of the Wrights, and back. The letter carried by an air force jet fighter, made the 1,000 miles in two hours and a half of actual flying time.

The letter bore the first cancelled stamp of the new, six-cent airmail issue that the postoffice department is using in honor of the Wrights. Kitty Hawk's tiny fourth class postoffice soon had more than 400,000 covers, all bearing the new stamp, on their way to stamp collectors throughout the world.

Letter Round World

Another letter, sent around the world in a record time of less than five days, was from President Truman to the Kill Devil Hill Memorial Association. Robert S. Johnson of Washington, president of the air force association, presented the letter to Rep. Herbert C. Bonner (D-NC), who read the President's message.

Dozens of air force and civilian planes zoomed overhead during the ceremonies. One of them, a B-25 bomber bringing Maj. Gen. Orvil A. Anderson from Maxwell Field, Ala., crashed in landing at Manteo airport but no one was injured. The plane's landing gear collapsed.

In contrast to the bleak, windy day on which the Wrights made their first flight, today's weather was warm and clear. Oldtimers around Kitty Hawk, among them A. W. Drinkwater, a telegraph operator, recalled that a brisk wind helped lift the flimsy craft over the sand dunes 46 years ago. The plane flew about 120 feet in 12 seconds; marking the first successful flight in a heavier than air, power driven machine.

Harper Succeeds Parnell Thomas

HACKENSACK, N. J., Dec. 17—(AP)—New Jersey Labor Commissioner Harry C. Harper today was unanimously selected by Republican leaders of the seventh congressional district as organizational candidate to succeed J. Parnell Thomas.

Thomas, jailed and fined for payroll padding, has submitted his resignation as congressman effective Jan. 2.

Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll said he will call a special election in the district after the resignation becomes effective.

Mrs. Amelia Thomas, wife of the Allendale congressman, announced when he was sentenced that she would seek election to his post.

Democrats of the seventh district are expected to confer over the week-end to make their selection.

Harper, a former professional baseball player, pitched for the Washington Senators, the Boston Red Sox and the New York Yankees, retiring from baseball in 1922.

Welfare Office Clearing House For Giving Christmas Gifts

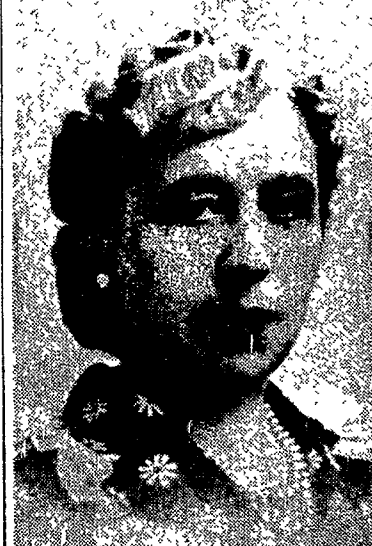

The Christmas season is here, and again we buy gifts for our family and friends. We sing the beloved Christmas carols of praise and we place the star atop the unslept Christmas tree—the star that reminds us of the light that led the wisemen and the shepherds to the Christ child.

Today that light still shines—it shines in its warm bright glow within the hearts of those who remember the real spirit of Christmas. It shines in the hearts of those who have at the top of their Christmas lists someone who will not have a Merry Christmas unless someone with plenty shares their Christmas with them.

The Welfare office is a busy place these days trying to find enough people with Christmas in their hearts to help provide a little of the holiday spirit to those who do not have. This week will be even worse—up to the last thing Christmas eve.

Training In 'Sub' Warfare Essential

President Deems
It Necessary in Our Defense

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 17—(AP)—President Truman today described the Navy's underway warfare training as "one of the greatest necessities of our national defense program."

His Florida vacation drawing near a close—the President, looking tanned and rested, but definitely plump—paid tribute to the "Sonarman" as one of the key figures in the anti-submarine forces.

The commander-in-chief handed out diplomas to 36 graduates of the U. S. Fleet Sonar school here, shaking hands and saluting each in turn.

Meanwhile, some of the President's party disclosed that he expects to name a chairman of the National Securities Resources Board in January.

The post has been vacant since the resignation of Arthur M. Hill several months ago.

The President named Mon C. Wallgren, former governor of Washington, to the $14,000 a year job, but the Senate armed services committee tabled the nomination. Wallgren later was confirmed for membership on the federal power commission.

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman has been serving as acting chairman along with his other duties.

He has completed work on an industrial mobilization plan that is subject to constant change to meet developments. Planning has progressed to the point that Mr. Truman is understood to be ready to call in a full-time chairman.

He flies back to Washington Tuesday for a meeting two days later at the White House with his cabinet for a discussion of his forthcoming "state of the union," budget and economic messages.

He flies to Independence, Mo., Friday to spend the Christmas holidays at home.

The "Sonarman" receives and interprets Sonar information which is employed in directing anti-submarine ships to the attack. Sonar covers sound, navigation and ranging.

The graduates had just completed a six months course of training.

Capt. William Rowell Caruthers of Pine Bluff, Ark., commanding officer of the school, said applications for enrollment have doubled since Mr. Truman presented diplomas to a graduating class last March.

American Jailed In Hungary

U.S. Officials are Denied Permit
To See Israel
Jacobson Held

By Endre Marlon
BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 17—(AP)—Hungarian authorities have jailed Israel Jacobson, director of the Hungarian division of the American joint distribution Committee, U. S. Minister Nathaniel P. Davis said tonight. It was the second arrest of an American here in a month.

American officials have been denied permission to see Jacobson and the charges have not been disclosed.

The AJDC is a Jewish relief agency. The Communist government outlawed immigration to Israel the first of the year, despite Israeli protests, and later imprisoned a group of Hungarian Zionist leaders on charges of assisting Jews to get out of this country illegally.

Arrested After Leave
Jacobson, 37, has headed the AJDC office here since September, 1947. He was arrested Thursday upon returning to Hungary from Vienna, Austria, after a leave in the United States.

U. S. Legation sources said the Hungarians so far have refused to permit them to visit another American, Robert A. Vogler, 38, of New York, who was arrested Nov. 18 on charges of spying and sabotage.

The government announced Nov. 22 that Vogler, an assistant vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, and a Briton and a Hungarian held with him had confessed.

Informed western sources in Vienna said they believed Jacobson might be accused before a Budapest people's court of helping Hungarian Jews to get to Israel. The AJDC was mentioned in the Budapest trial of the Zionist leaders last July, but Jacobson himself was not involved.

Seventeen Bodies In Plane Wreck

JALAPA, Mexico, Dec. 17—(AP)—Search parties today found 17 bodies in the wreckage of a plane crash that caused five more deaths among relatives and friends trying to reach the site.

All aboard the Mexican airliner, also carrying $5,300,000 pesos ($590,000), were dead. Their bodies were mutilated and burned beyond recognition. The plane crashed yesterday.

The five other deaths occurred from traffic accidents involving cars carrying relatives and others to the rugged mountain site of the crash.

Santa Wants To Visit Sick Children

Santa Claus stopped in the Chamber of Commerce office for a short time Saturday and asked them to help him get a list of all the sick children in Sedalia so he could visit them. Santa said that he was making his schedule so that he would have Tuesday afternoon to call on the sick children of the community. A call to the Chamber of Commerce office will bring Santa right out to the house of any little sick boy or girl.

Confesses To Slaying In 1914

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 17.—(P)—A self-confessed slayer's admission to a 35-year-old policeman's shooting "checks out," a Kansas City detective said Friday.

Det.-Lt. Harry Nesbitt announced he will fly back home today with Paul Ernest Lovey, 54, who walked into a police station Sunday and told Desk Sgt. C. T. Peterson: "I'm wanted for murder."

Nesbitt said police files on the slaying of Patrolman Bernard McKernan, Jan. 24, 1914, are sketchy, but that the story Lovey told checks with newspaper clippings. He quoted Lovey as saying he shot McKernan when the latter tried to arrest him for routine questioning.

Nesbitt said Lovey told him: "I'm getting along in years, and I figure I have nothing to lose by giving myself up. I've always been surprised that I wasn't picked up before."

The detective said Lovey is an ex-convict, whose FBI record includes the stabbing of a guard in Leavenworth penitentiary in 1916.

Blaze Sweeps Apartments

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—(P)—A spectacular fire swept through the north section of the Regent Park apartments on Hanley road in suburban Clayton late Friday, shooting up flames a hundred feet or more and attraction thousands of spectators on their way home from work.

No one was reported injured. Flames broke out in the upper part of the three story brick structure and spread rapidly. Fifteen families occupied the building. Many were away from home when the fire started from an undetermined cause.

The building is located in an exclusive residential area.

Fire department officials estimated the loss at $300,000.

The estimated number of juuge boxes operating in the United States now is 275,000.

Eggs Hit New Low Since Year Of 1946

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(P)—Egg handlers didn't want eggs Friday and prices in the wholesale market fell to new lows since 1946.

The handlers didn't want eggs because they were uncertain about government price support operations next year, traders said. Eggs currently are supported at 90 per cent of parity. Next year the support price can range anywhere from zero to 90 per cent.

(Parity is a theoretical price level calculated to give farmers a fair return in terms of purchasing power).

Best quality eggs sold at 33 to 34 cents a dozen, equalling the low made in April, 1946. These eggs have crashed 29 to 30 cents since late September, losing almost half their value in a little less than three months. Prices today were down 1 to 3 cents from yesterday on all grades.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—(P)—Herman Ziegenbalg, partner in a tailow-making concern bearing his name, pleaded guilty to income tax evasion Friday and was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $6,000.

Noting that Ziegenbalg was a draft board official during the war, Federal Judge George H. Moore said on pronouncing sentence: "At a time like that, this man, who was sending young men out to die for their country, wasn't giving the government what was its due."

Ziegenbalg was charged with evading $8,114 in income taxes.

Resigns On Hoover Body

Dewey Anderson Not In Accord On Speech Made

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(P)—Terming former President Hoover's thinking "out of date," Dewey Anderson resigned Friday from the Citizens Committee for the Hoover report.

Anderson, head of the Public Affairs Institute, a privately financed research organization, said the former president sounded like the "limited government services advocate of the late 20s and depression 30s" in a speech Monday night before the Citizens Committee.

Mr. Hoover could not be reached immediately in New York for comment.

The research organization Anderson heads was formed in 1947. Anderson said its 60 sponsors included William P. Kennedy, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; Thurman Arnold, anti-trust chief in the Roosevelt administration; Chester Bowles, governor of Connecticut and former OPA head, and James Patton, president of the National Farmers Union.

The Citizens Committee for the Hoover report was organized to support the recommendations for government reorganization submitted to Congress by a bipartisan commission headed by Hoover.

Anderson said he agreed to serve on the Hoover committee although he didn't go along with many points in the Hoover report. He said he is "for the kind of government as efficient and economical as it is possible to make it."

But Hoover in his speech, Anderson said, "tried to commit us to a set of principles that is anathema to every new dealer and fair dealer."

The public and private sectors of our economy are so intertwined that we couldn't withdraw any appreciable amount of needed government services without crippling the private sector as well, Anderson explained.

"Substantial savings are possible with greater efficiency in government, but the Hoover approach couldn't achieve them without crippling government and the economy."

Probe Would Be Welcome

Such Declared By Head Of U. S. Steel Corporation

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 17—(P)—Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel Corporation, said Friday big steel welcomes an opportunity to tell a congressional committee of a price increase it announced today.

Fairless made the remark in a short statement. He said it was in reply to reports from Washington that congressional investigators will soon probe U. S. Steel's average four per cent price hike in steel which went into effect at 12:01 a. m. (EST) today.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) chairman of the joint congressional economic committee, declared yesterday the price raise is unjustified and will have an inflationary effect on America's economy.

(In Youngstown, O., the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., today announced it would "make adjustments in its price structure." Details were not given.)

In his statement, Fairless declared: "Reports from Washington today indicate that representatives of U. S. Steel will be asked by one or more congressional committees to appear in Washington shortly to explain the small increase in its steel prices announced today.

"These price increases average approximately four per cent. U. S. Steel will welcome such an opportunity to appear and present the facts and figures establishing that its increased costs, including those to result from its new insurance and pension programs, give U. S. Steel no alternative other than to increase its prices to this extent in order to cover such higher costs of operation."

Big Steel's price boost had almost been a foregone conclusion since the industry ended a 42-day old strike November 11 by agreeing to the demands of Philip Murray's CIO United Steelworkers.

The new contract gives the steelworkers $100 monthly pensions, including social security, and a five-cent an hour social welfare program financed jointly by employer and employee.

When Big Steel announced the steel price increase today—averaging $4 a ton—it promised to cut prices of tin mill products about $3.50 a ton on January 1, 1950. The price of stainless steel products was left unchanged. Advised on the Fairless statement, O'Mahoney said tonight: "That's splendid. It clears the way and I certainly shall recommend to my committee that we proceed and get the facts."

O'Mahoney added that he would not have continued prosperity if we stop deficit financing because there is a good market throughout the world."

He said Congress could help things by refusing to increase taxes and even more aid would be given if they are reduced.

The Missourian added he favors drastic reductions in excise taxes on travel and communications, saying the present rates are unjustified and retard business.

There's nothing remarkably strange about MEN shopping for their WOMEN folk, any more than there is about WOMEN invading stores exclusively for MEN.

In Hollywood actor Robinson commented: "This is all silly propaganda that is dying of its own lies." The actor said he is not a member of any Communist front organization and added: "I've said that a million times. I'm against tyranny of any kind."

Another comment came from Hollywood from actor Garfield. He said: "I made several trips during the war to entertain our armed forces at which times I was thoroughly investigated by the FBI on all counts. The results of those investigations surely should be available now and I stand on them. If they want to string a man up for being a liberal let them bring on their ropes."

Huber told the subcommittee that "Communist teachers within the Teachers' Union volunteered at election time to appear at all schools in New York City to give literacy tests to the alien element." He said that "whether those people actually passed the tests or not, they were passed on through" by Communist teachers.

Asked by a committee investigator whether he could name any teacher "who participated in this fraudulent activity," Huber replied:

"Yes: Rhetta Friedland of Hunter college."

Investigator: "To your knowledge, is she a member of the Communist party?"

Huber: "Positively."

McCarran said more of Huber's testimony would be made public later.

Firemen said that the pressure was caused by the various fire calls today.

Make Inquiry On Lobbying

Other Subjects are Under Threat Of Inquisitions

By Douglas B. Cornell
WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Congress will start the year with a brand new investigation—into lobbying—while the threat of renewed inquiries hangs over a whole range of familiar subjects.

A special committee was formed to look into operations of lobbyists who hang around capitol hill and try to get this bill passed or that one knocked in the head. It will try to start on Jan. 15.

Inquiries into items like alleged atomic "leaks," defense policy, monopoly, five per centers and the price of coffee have been marked "unfinished business." Lawmakers' talk of churning them over again in the next session.

Some of them might not start again. Somehow a lot of investigations that spring up and blaze brightly never revive after an interruption.

Furthermore, the congressional election is on the way next year. And House and Senate leaders may not be over-anxious to push many probes.

Other Inquiries
Even so, the lobby investigation may not be the only one that will take some new twists next year.

For instance:

The House commerce committee is planning a quick look at the large number of plane accidents in recent months. It might approve a bill to re-establish an Air Safety board in the government.

The House small business committee already is checking on the federal trade commission, to see if there is anything to complaints it has received that the FTC isn't doing as good a job as it should. Hearings are in prospect.

The Senate-House atomic energy committee expects to find out what kind of civilian defense system against atom bombs is in prospect. The House un-American activities committee may get into Communist activity in Hawaii and it may pick up some old trails of suspected Soviet espionage agents.

And in the hold-over class for that committee is its inquiry into wartime atomic shipments to the Russians.

Two committees took in after the steel price increase announced Thursday by U. S. Steel. Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) of the Senate-House economic committee said he expects an inquiry to start shortly and hopes it will discourage other steel firms from following U. S. Steel. Then chairman Celler (D-NY) of the House judiciary committee said he would call hearings early next month and summon U. S. Steel officials for "an accounting to the American people" for the increase.

Whether the House armed services committee will renew its study of defense policies and a row between the Navy and its sister services over combat assignment, is uncertain at this point. But in any event, it is going to hand in a report on what it has found out so far.

Hoe's inquiry into five percenters—agents who get a commission on government contracts obtained by their clients—also may reopen for business at the same old stand.

Personals
Mrs. Austin Hurley, Sixth street and Grand avenue, returned to Springfield Saturday, where she and Mr. Hurley are spending a few days assisting in the Sedalia store there. She came to Sedalia to see her mother, Mrs. Catherine Renfrow, a patient in the Bothwell hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Shore of 1120 East Ninth street have returned home from the state of California, where they spent a month visiting with Mrs. Shore's father, J. W. Hayes, who is 98 and a resident of Los Angeles, and two sisters and brothers-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Shore of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Cook of Huntington, Calif. Mrs. Shore said they visited several other places in the state, including Hollywood.

Protest From Sedalians Who Resent Cutting of Trees

Broadway's new lighting system will not shed its brilliancy without a blazing objection from property owners who resent cutting of trees to make way for the light poles, wires and fixtures.

During the past week a written protest was circulated for signatures with the thought in mind that an expression of resentment could not replace the trees but might promote a movement to establish some means of preventing a continuing tree-cutting program on other streets; too, improved standards in place of wooden poles, might be obtained for Broadway, and overhead wires eliminated.

The text of the protest, and preliminary signers, was presented to the Democrat-Capital for publication, and is as follows:

"There are many times in the life of a community when certain alleged improvements are made that are not unanimously popular. When, however, the governing body of a city permits or orders an important segment of its great natural asset to be willfully destroyed then a sincere and public protest should be made. We the undersigned so protest and we are sure there are thousands of others in our city who feel as we do.

"The large and beautiful trees that lined the south side of Broadway were monuments of the foresight of the early settlers of Sedalia. Many years were required for their growth and thousands of dollars were spent by the property owners to maintain and protect them. They were so attractive that many tourists, motoring through the town, have taken the time and interest to write concerning their beauty. Today they are gone and in their place is a long row of unsightly light poles, poles that every other community of our size and larger is eliminating as fast as its finances will permit. Why, in the name of progress, if additional lights were thought necessary, weren't standards installed and underground wiring used so that the trees could have been saved and the standards themselves been less of an eyesore? The cost would have been more but nothing compared to the value of the trees destroyed and the resulting defacement of Broadway.

"Due to the fact that the destruction of the trees was well under way before most of us were conscious of what was happening, it was not possible to organize in time sufficient public protest to halt the proceedings. It is, therefore too late to save our trees but we can, we believe, insist that the current unsightly and antiquated construction be changed by replacing the light poles and overhead wires with metal standards and underground wiring. Also we believe, if enough people are interested, that a planning board could be appointed, with sufficient rules and restrictions so as to prevent any further damage to the beauty of our city.

"For the record may we say that that property owners on Broadway strongly protested the cutting of their trees but to no avail. The trees were destroyed regardless of whether permission was granted or denied.

Christmas Seals Sales Pleasing
Officers of the Pettis County Tuberculosis society were very pleased over the response to the Christmas Seal sale this year. After the seals were mailed out the dollars started coming in by return mail. They have come in steadily ever since but there are still many who fully intend to buy those bright little seals for their Christmas cards and packages but just keep forgetting to mail in their checks.

Every dollar means a little help toward keeping somebody from dying with tuberculosis. Every dollar is a dollar well spent.

New Trial After 20 Years

Ordered for a Life Term by Supreme Court

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 17—(AP)—The Missouri supreme court ordered a new trial today for Roy C. Hadley, who has served almost 20 years of a life term for the fatal shooting of his estranged wife in St. Louis.

Mrs. Flora Belle Hadley was shot to death Feb. 26, 1930, and John H. Hubbard, a son-in-law, was wounded as he broke in a door to the room where the slaying occurred.

Hadley was subdued by his son, who beat him with a bronze candlestick.

Ten days later Hadley, who is now 65, pleaded guilty in circuit court at St. Louis and was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder.

Hadley pleaded before the supreme court that at the time he entered the guilty plea he was physically and mentally off balance as a result of his injuries and failed to demand legal counsel through ignorance of the law.

The court held the circuit judge who sentenced Hadley erred in failing to see that Hadley was represented by an attorney.

The court ordered the case sent back to St. Louis circuit court for a new trial. Hadley probably will be taken to St. Louis early next week.

At the time of the fatal shooting Hadley had been working in Memphis, Tenn., as a machinist and had been separated from his wife for two years. At an inquest it was brought out that Hadley had tried to effect a reconciliation by mail and had been drinking when he returned to St. Louis on the day of the shooting.

Hadley escaped from the penitentiary at Jefferson City in 1934 by scaling an eight-foot wire fence but was captured two hours later.

Strike on an Arkansas Paper
LITTLE ROCK, Dec. 17—(AP)—A score or more news and photographic employees of the Arkansas Gazette, 131-year-old morning newspaper here, were on strike tonight.

The 21 or 23 strikers—the total wasn't quite clear—are members of the CIO American Newspaper Guild. They walked out after negotiations over a contract broke down. They couldn't agree on the dismissal clause.

While pickets marched in front of entrances to the "Gazette" building in the rain, a skeleton staff of supervisory employees, editorial writers, the paper's cartoonist and three reporters were getting out the paper. Regular editions were planned.

It was the first strike by newspaper news staffers in Arkansas, within the memory of veteran newspapermen. The Gazette, oldest newspaper west of the Mississippi river, was founded 131 years ago.

The Gazette is a morning paper. Plans went ahead to issue regular editions tonight.

City Editor Sam Harris said all but four members of the news staff—excluding supervisory employees and editorial writers—walked out.

Vic Stasiuk Is Top K.C. Hockey Player

Mohawks Meet Omaha Knights In K. C. Tonight

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17—Right now the most popular Kansas City Mohawk player is Vic Stasiuk, the 188-pound youngster who has won the admiration of the fans for his stellar play. Only in his second year as pro hockey player, Vic has been great this season and will see a lot of action against the Omaha Knights in the Pla-Mor arena next Sunday night.

Stasiuk is the type of player who wants to succeed. All last summer, the big fellow practiced and when he reported to the training camp at North Bay, Ont., he was in perfect condition. "I want to be a National Leaguer," Stasiuk told owner Bill Tobin.

"Hockey is my first love and I want to be a toponotch player." Vic is headed for the big time if he continues to play the same brilliant band of hockey for the Kansas City club. He's one of those double-duty players and can play either in the back line or on the front line.

Changes Minds of Critics
Roggie Hamilton was criticized considerably all last season by spectators who said Vic would never be a hockey player. But the persistent Vic is changing the minds of those critics, who are now on his bandwagon. Stasiuk reminds fans of Glenn Wright, former Kansas City Blue baseball star shortstop who booted the ball all over the lot when he came to the Blues, but Glenn, like Vic, had the stuff which makes real star performers and he developed rapidly and played with the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League.

Out of town fans also can plan now for the Christmas night and New Year's night games. Louisville will be here December 25th and Minneapolis, pace-setters will play the night of January 1.

The Pla-Mor arena is located at 3127 Wyandotte street.

Real Surprise on Radio Program
Mrs. John Larrimoe of Los Angeles, Calif., appeared on the "Truth or Consequences" program Saturday night and when she tried to say hello to her mother, Mrs. J. D. Smith, of Hughesville, she was surprised to hear her mother answer her in person.

Previous arrangements had been made, unknown to Mrs. Larrimoe, the former Miss Dorothy Smith, of this vicinity, to bring her parents to California by TWA as a surprise to Mrs. Larrimoe when she appeared on the program. Mr. and Mrs. Smith also took part in the program doing a bit of talking, with Mr. Smith telling about milking five cows before he left by plane for California.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith's other children, who all live in Sedalia were listening in on the program as well as many neighbors, friends and other Sedalians who knew they were to appear on "Truth or Consequences."

William Jewell Cagers Lose 45-31 To Ottawa Team
LIBERTY, Mo., Dec. 17—(AP)—Ottawa University defeated William Jewell's basketball team 45 to 31 tonight by throwing up a second half defense that held the losers to two points in 13 minutes.

During the close first half the score was tied seven times and the lead changed frequently. Ottawa led at the half 22-20.

Bill Tiegreen hit 13 points for Ottawa. None of the Jewell players got more than 5.

Now's the Time to Buy the Little Lady That Fur Coat

By Cynthia Lowry

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(P)—If the lady isn't mink-mad—and she probably is—this is a wonderful time to buy her that fur coat. Prices generally are way down. Retailers are marking down prices and advertising bargains in an effort to move merchandise. Except for the mink broadtail and Chinchilla specialists, the fur business quite Franklin is in a bad slump.

The pinch is being felt where it hurts the most—in the popular and moderate price brackets, $100 to $1,000. Except for a fraction of business, 10 per cent at the outside, the fur business eats of starves on its traffic in muskrat, Persian Lamb (the two best sellers), beaver, squirrel, raccoon, leopard and all the wide variety of cheaper furs like mouton, rabbit and others.

While retailers are loathe to call further attention to the situation by discussing it, manufacturing furriers, dealers and processors here in the nation's fur processing center feel that the explanation for bad business is quite simple.

Living Is High

"The cost of living is high, loose money isn't loose any more, and people just don't have enough money left over from food and rent to spend on a fur coat," said Morris Gordon, a manufacturer whose opinion was echoed by a number of others.

Another factor is the current 20 per cent luxury tax on furs—an excise the industry has agitated strongly to have removed. Most furriers feel it will be around their necks for another year.

Finally, the manufacturers think that potential customers are keeping their purses locked to see if prices don't drop further, and, finally, if they wait long enough maybe they can pick up a mink coat for the price they intended to pay for a sheared beaver.

"Mink, mink," exclaimed one manufacturer, "all the women want is mink!"

Prices Broke

As a matter of fact, prices of mink skins broke along with other pelts several months ago. They slipped off some 25 per cent. But with increasing demand for the skins, the price has bounced back and even passed the old high. The first fall auction prices were 25 per cent higher than in 1948.

"Mink raisers figured they couldn't make any money on their skins, so they cut down on the numbers they were raising," a manufacturer explained. "So now they are in scarce supply and most of us could use twice the number we are getting."

A fifth avenue retailer tearing his hair at the lack of customers in his budget and middle-priced salons, said people who are in the broadtail, chinchilla and mink financial brackets are paying higher prices for luxury furs without quibbling.

"I swear it's easier to sell a $10,000 coat today than to get a $500 muskrat out of stock," he mourned.

Fur business boomed in the post-war period. Now it is down to about half of the post-war peak.

Business Is Bad

Albert J. Feldman, officer of one of the largest fur-dyeing concerns, said simply: "Business is bad."

Many factors enter into the making of a fur coat besides the cost of skins. Labor costs are high, because it is still a hand-craft and tightly unionized. Processing the furs and dyeing them costs money. Retail mark-ups run about the same as on outer clothing.

The Associated Fur Manufacturers, representing firms which make about 85 per cent of the nation's new fur coats, says that compared to last year's retail muskrat has dropped 30 per cent, beaver 25 per cent, and sheared raccoon between 15 and 20. Other furs have been going down considerably in price.

"Which indicates a word of warning," the association spokesman cautioned, "because it makes a good time for unscrupulous operators to sell inferior goods. Be sure to patronize a reputable, established furrier. It's your only protection, because few people are expert enough to know values or pick flaws."

Hybrid Chicks Developing

By Loyd Brady

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(P)—The son of the man who helped pioneer the development of hybrid corn says production of hybrid chickens is moving swiftly along parallel lines.

H. B. Wallace, of Des Moines, Ia., son of former Vice President Henry A. Wallace, of Des Moines, Ia., son of former Vice President Henry A. Wallace, predicts that hybrid chicken development may bring results almost as fabulous as have been achieved in hybrid corn.

The younger Wallace is manager of the Hy-Line Poultry Farms, the largest of six companies which make up the hybrid chick industry. He gives these figures for Iowa alone.

Loses Round in Court Fight

Mrs. Verone Odegard Bernheimer (left) leaves court in Los Angeles, Calif., with a friend, Cynthia Snowden, after a judge ruled that she never was legally married to Earle J. The ruling came only several days after the Missouri Supreme court had declared their son, Earle, Jr., 7, legitimate. (AP WIREPHOTO)

News Camera

AP Newsfeatures
Spending money in a photo store is easy. But spending it wisely for practical gifts a shutter bug would use, is a problem. If you have a camera fan on your Christmas gift list it is essential that you find out the complete name and negative size of his camera if you are thinking of getting accessories. With this information a dealer can supply not only the correct size of lens shade and filters, or camera case or color film, etc., but it can act as a helpful guide in suggesting other appropriate items.
If you are the photo fan, clip this column, circle the items you could use and leave it "accidentally" where the other members of the family will stumble over it.
Under $1
Exposure guides start at 15c but the best buy is the Snapshot Guide for 25c since it will help you with indoor, outdoor and color pictures. Then there are cable releases, plastic stirring-crushing paddles, trays, small-size chemicals packaged for one evening's work, print rollers and lens brushes.
Under $5
Especially recommended is a hand viewer at $2. This shows color pictures in three dimensions from a large selection of card reels that are 3 for $1. Movie fans might need an inexpensive splicer, extra reels and cans of color film. Slide files and slide mounts are handy for the color man, but complete slide binding outfits start from $5 up. Gadgets might like a transparent plastic filter case, a flashbulb tester or a table top tripod.
For the dark room addict there could be a print trimmer, a plastic tone matcher, a magnifying viewer for enlarging, a blotting roll for prints or a bottle of wetting agent for spot-less negative drying. Artistic souls could have fun with a transparent oil coloring set while conscientious fans could make good use of a negative file—the right size—or an album to preserve and display all the pictures they've been taking.
Up to $10
Camera cases and gadget bags are mighty practical. For beginners we have a simple home-developing outfit or a tripod. For those who have progressed to indoor picture taking there are two or four unit light-holding brackets which can be hand-held or fit on a tripod. They accommodate either movie or still cameras.
There's a junior movie projector that will keep the children enthralled with 16mm movies at this top figure. Back in the dark-room our worker might like studio scales for his pet formulas, a foot switch to keep his hands free, an alarm clock to remind him when the developing is done, a daylight-load roll film tank so he won't have to load reels.
Up to $25
Exposure meters, synchronized flash units and slide projectors rule this range. And we mustn't forget the fixed focus flash camera outfits that hover around the $15 scale. Some of them are aimed directly for the youngsters. For the color man there's an automatic slide changer, movie screens and desk viewers.
... And Up!
This year's photo innovation was the picture-in-a-minute camera at $90, as up-to-date as television. Probably the most popular family gift is a movie projector for those who own camera only. For the dark room man there are new cold light enlargers that make life comfortable and safe for the negatives.
And to get everything in the right perspective, try the new stereo camera that gets it all in three dimensions... in color... at $162.

Negro Council Has Election

The Negro Community Council met in the C. C. Hubbard high school library Thursday night. The president, Carl Abbott, called for all reports. These reports were given by the city committee, Park and Recreation committee and Special committees.
Several wise and sound suggestions were made but were tabled for the next meeting since it was the night for election of officers for 1950.
Prof. Hylick asked the president if all new business could be tabled until the next meeting, since basketball games were to be played between Springfield and Sedalia, starting at 8 o'clock. The president got the consent of the other members of the organization to accept this suggestion.
Following the suggestion Rev. Wharry offered a motion that the organization dispense with all business, declare all offices vacant, and elect officers for 1950. This was seconded by Prof. Hylick. The motion carried and the following officers were elected:
President, Carl Abbott
Vice President, J. B. Hylick
Secretary, Fred Ferguson
Assistant Secretary, Rev. J. Y. Jackson
The next meeting will be held in the Hubbard school library Jan. 5, 1950, at 8 o'clock p. m. Business of importance is to be discussed.

Try a Big Breakfast for 'Smilage,' Scientists Say

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Science is confirming what a lot of people already knew: you get good "smilage" from a ham and egg breakfast.

Investigators at the U. S. Department of Agriculture fed people different breakfasts for two years. Several hours later each day they checked on their good—or ill—nature and the state of their energy.

While these scientists can't come right out and be too partial to ham and eggs, or bacon and eggs, the results of all this early morning work certainly take a clasp at the cup-of-black-coffee-for-breakfast people.

The tests showed that a cup of black coffee, alone, equals no breakfast when it is given the smile-and-energy test hours later. But bacon and eggs, or ham and eggs, were right at the top of the list on all counts. In some cases the good effects of such a breakfast lasted until mid-afternoon.

Need Other Things Too
But ham or bacon and eggs alone don't make a good breakfast. You need other things, too.

For a really efficient breakfast you should start with a glass of citrus or tomato juice. Then comes a piece of ham at least two by four inches in size and one quarter inch thick (or two slices of bacon, each at least five inches long); two eggs; two slices of toast with butter and preserves; topped off with coffee with cream and sugar.

That's what the home town folks used to call a breakfast that sticks to your ribs.

Quite right, say the scientists. And if you are a hard-working man you might add a couple of pancakes.

Need Protein's For Breakfast
Dr. Elsa Orent-Keiles and Lois F. Hallman, of the Bureau of Home Nutrition and Home Economics, found in their two year study:

1. People who get about one-third of their daily requirement of protein at breakfast feel better throughout most of the day. They have more energy and more good cheer.

(The daily protein requirement is around 60 grams for an office-employed woman, about 75 grams for a city-dwelling man. In these government tests women were the subjects, and around 22 to 25 grams of protein for breakfast brought the best results.)

2. People who are such a breakfast had more sugar in their blood (a measure of their energy) after several hours. This laboratory test of the blood confirmed visible benefits of the protein breakfast—the feeling of well-being and cheerful (smilage).

No Use For Black Coffee
Dr. Keiles and Miss Hallman say a cup of black coffee is just about the equal of no breakfast at all because:

After a cup of black coffee for breakfast the amount of sugar in the blood of many of the people in this experiment remained at about the level where it would be if they had no breakfast.

But these people who drank only black coffee reported such things as dizziness, trembling of the hands and feet, lack of energy for work, irritability and other things that go to make an unhappy person.

Dr. Keiles and Miss Hallman said some cereal breakfasts will equal ham-and-eggs if supplemented by a glass or more of milk.

Bacon or ham with the cereal didn't add quite enough protein unless servings were increased in size.

Vitamins Necessary
No study of vitamins was made in this experiment. But the researchers said both the cereal and the meat-and-egg breakfasts contained what generally is considered adequate amounts of vitamins for breakfast.

Dr. Keiles and Miss Hallman said it begins to appear that the good you get from foods depends to same extent upon the timing of meals. Each meal should have enough nutrition elements, at least—such as proteins, carbohydrates etc.—to last until the next meal.

They said proteins may be particularly good for breakfast because they give a steadier supply of the materials that make energy. In other words, your body "burns" proteins more slowly and steadily than carbohydrates and so produce energy for a longer time.

Plans Made For Basketball Tournaments

Missouri Sites For Class A Regionals Named by Board

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17/(P)—Plans for the 1950 high school basketball tournaments were set up today by the board of control of the Missouri State High School Activities Association.

Elimination tournaments will lead to the state contests, Class A at Columbia, and Class B at Springfield.

T. L. Noel, executive secretary, released the Class A plan today and said the plan for Class B schools would be announced shortly.

The 129 Class A schools, those with enrollments of more than 278 pupils each, will begin competition the week of February 18 in 16 regional tournaments in 12 cities. Four will be held at St. Louis and two at Kansas City. The winner of each regional will be eligible for the state tournament beginning the week of February 26.

Finals At Springfield
Noel said the 32 Class B sub-regionals will begin February 18. Winners and runners up will advance to regional competition the week beginning February 26. The winner and runner-up of the eight regionals will be eligible for the final at Springfield.

Nearby sites of the Class A regionals and teams entered are: Warrensburg—Carrollton, Clinton, Excelsior Springs, Lee's Summit, Lexington, Wentworth, Liberty and Raytown.

Hannibal—Brookfield, Hannibal, Kirksville, Macon, Mexico, Missouri Military Academy, Moberly, Unionville.

Boonville—Boonville, Kemper, Columbia, Fulton, Jefferson City, St. Peters of Jefferson City, Marshall, Sedalia.

Lebanon—Cabool, Eldon, Houston, Lebanon, Mount Grove, Rolla, Salem, Willow Springs.

Class A Action
The Class A action will involve 129 teams instead of the originally planned 128. Since the survey this spring, another school has joined the M. S. H. S. A. A. and falls into Class A. The school is Mercy of University City.

The resulting shift in schools left two tied with 278 enrollments, so St. Louis was granted permission to handle the odd team in its district in the regular course of regional play.

Officials for the Columbia Class A championships are:
Chesler Knopp of Pleasant Hill; Kenneth Kirschner of Jefferson City; Tom McConnell of Clayton and Clay Van Reen of St. Louis. For the Class B tournament the board approved Sam Avery of Marston; C. T. Baldwin of Maryville; Jim Ewing of Springfield and Frank Griswold, Jr., of Clarance.

Approval for the Missouri schools to participate in a series of baseball clinics to be conducted in late January and early February by major league baseball team representatives. Seven clinics are to be held, in St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Springfield, Columbia, Hannibal, and Cape Girardeau.

Four Sedalians Receive Football Letters at CMC

Thirty-two men were approved for football letters at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, this season, and four of the number are former Smith-Cotton high school Tigers. The announcement was made by Tate Page, athletic director of the college.

Only seven seniors were among the monogram winners this year. The Mules ended the season in fourth place in the M. I. A. A. Conference. There are eleven Juniors, seven Sophomores and seven Freshmen on the latter squad.

The Sedalians to be recognized are: "Big Jim" Egbert, a Junior; and Larry Vilmer, Bill Ray and Bob Shultz, Freshmen.

Alumni Cagers Meet Tigers December 30

A spectacular basketball game is scheduled for Friday night at 8:00 o'clock, December 30 at the Smith-Cotton high school, when alumni players meet the young and agile Tiger cagers. This will be a great opportunity for former S-C cagers to test their muscles against the teen agers, strength.

According to Joseph Benson, principal of the high school, the game is being held to promote a fund to purchase new curtains for the gymnasium.

Herb Studer, a former basketball player of Smith-Cotton is in charge of getting an alumni team together, and has already compiled a list of names he hopes to obtain for the game. They are: Bud Thomas, Bob Tipton, Jim Egbert, Harold Mickens, Bud Michaels, George Thompson, Charley Thompson, Julian Caldwell, Bob Vilmer. Any other alumni interested in playing is asked to get in touch with Studer.

A Victorious Cage Meet for Missouri Team

Sharpshooters Hand Michigan State a 73 to 54 Beating

EAST LANSING, Mich., Dec. 17—(P)—A red hot team of University of Missouri sharpshooters handed Michigan State a 73 to 54 basketball beating before a slim crowd of 4,288 here tonight.

The Missourians were deadly in their aim from the floor and used the height of Jerry Frowd, 6 foot 6 inch center, and Don Stroet, 6 foot 8 inch guard, to control the ball most of the evening.

It was the fourth successive defeat for the luckless Spartans. Tigers Took An Early Lead
Missouri showed the trend of the game early by racing to a 37-19 lead at the half. The best MSC could do in the way of fighting back was to cut the lead to 15 points six minutes into the second half.

Forward Bud Heineman, the smallest man on the Missouri squad at 5 foot 10 inches, had an uncanny eye for dropping field goals at any angle. Heineman was high scorer with 18 points. Estrott contributed 12 points and Forward Bill Stauffer added 14 more for Missouri.

Heineman made six of his field goals before the intermission. He hit six of his first eight tries in the half but then missed the next five.

Scored In 16 Seconds
Missouri scored first on a free throw in the first 15 seconds. The Tigers led 12-7 at the seven minute mark and 24-14 six minutes before the half ended.

MSG Coach Al Kirchner used a dozen men before the half was over and 15 players saw action during the entire game.

Forward Danny Smith and Guard Jim Snodgrass did the most for MSC, each netting 10 points. The Missouri height led Michigan State into the fouling habit and three Spartans were benched for fouling five personal fouls each.

Michigan State previously lost to Michigan, Iowa and Indiana. Missouri split a two-game series with Texas Christian in the opener of its basketball season.

Lincoln Cagers Beat Sacred Heart

The Sacred Heart Freshman-Sophomore basketball team was defeated by Lincoln, Friday evening at Lincoln, by a score of 36-30 and was eliminated from the tournament being held at Lincoln.

Sacred Heart led at the half by a score of 16-4. In the second half, Lincoln started hitting and went ahead and although Sacred Heart made a desperate try for a comeback in the final quarter, the Lincoln team won the game.

Jim Fall was the high point man for Sacred Heart with 11 points and Bill Hodges was next, with 9. Boring led Lincoln in points with 11, and Roark was next, having 9.

Pittsburg Gorillas Defeated Maryville Team 49-41

MARYVILLE, Mo., Dec. 17—(P)—The Pittsburg, Kas. State Gorillas took a 49 to 41 basketball victory over Maryville State here tonight.

The Kansas cagers grabbed a 24 to 21 lead at halftime and stayed out in front all through the second half.

Maryville's center, Al Henning, was high scorer for the game with 15 points.

S-C Tigers Romped Kemper 53-27

Local Cagers Have Five Victories to Their Credit

The Smith-Cotton Tigers romped over the Kemper Yellowjackets to the tune of 53 to 27 Friday night at Boonville in a conference basketball game.

The Yellowjackets were behind at the end of each quarter, but at one time in the first half were leading the Tigers for a few minutes. The first period ended with the Tigers leading 14 to 9, and the intermission period closed with the Tigers out front by a 22 to 15 score. The local cagers jumped to a 39 to 22 lead at the close of the third quarter, and held the military boys to scoring only five points in the final period.

Host Was High Scorer
Bill Holst, star center for the Tiger squad paced his team with 25 points. Following him in scoring was his teammate, Ralph Walker with 10 points. Danny Wells hit for 12 points to take high point scoring honors for Kemper.

Since November 22, when the Tigers opened their cage season, they have defeated Tipton 50 to 30; Windsor 42 to 41; downed Jefferson City 49 to 30; whipped Marshall 43 to 20 and downed Kemper 53 to 27. The Tigers lost one game this season with the Hannibal Pirates during the Central Missouri Conference tournament which was played in Jefferson City, earlier this month. The team lost to Hannibal by two points to be second place winners in the tourney.

Meet Columbia Here January 6
The Tigers have won two straight conference victories, and will play their next game, which will be a conference tilt with Columbia Kewpies, at the Smith-Cotton high school, January 6.

Coach James Ball started the following in Friday night's contest: Bill Brown and Marvin Lankau, guards; Bill Holst, center; and Dale Ruffin and Ralph Walker, forwards.

Sport Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

GOOD TIME—Remember, the 3-year-old pacer, which smashed the world's two heat record in a race at the Missouri State Fair Grounds, last August during the Grand Circuit events. Well it was the same Good Time which was selected several days ago as the Harness Horse of the Year. Furthermore, it was a Sedalia who rode the sulky behind Good Time when he ran one heat in 2:01 3/5 and the next in 1:59 2/5 to set a new record.

That Sedalia, although he winters at Aiken, S. C., is none other than Frank Ervin, who got his start right out at the Fair grounds on that same track a number of years ago. Frank learned when the fair wasn't on a big racing circuit, but he went to the time and now has been one of, if not the top notch harness racing driver in the country.

Good Time a star among stars in the harness racing business is the son of Hal Dale-On Time. He is the first pacer and the first 3-year-old to win the award, sponsored by the Trotting Horse Club of America. He is owned by William H. Cane, Goshen, N.Y. He won the Little Brown Jug, Matron Stakes, Review Futurity and Western Pace. He lost one race in nine starts and earned $56,765. Total earnings for Good Time are $105,198, the most money any trotter or pacer harness racer ever earned as a 2 and 3-year-old.

Proximity, owned by Verhurst Brothers, Victor, N. Y., and aged trotting mare, placed second in the annual poll, while Rodney, giant trotting stallion which won the award in 1948 placed third.

Others in the top ten are: 4—Alemite, pacer, Newport Stock farm, South Plainfield, N. J., 176 points; 5—Chris Spencer, trotter, Dunbar Postwick, Shelburne, Vt., 164 points; 6—Bangaway, trotter, Saunders Mills, Toledo, O., 141 points; 7—Our Time, Saunders Mills, 84; 9—Jerry The First, pacer, Cobb-Burdick, Washington Court House, O., 73 points; 10—Miss Tilly, trotter, winner of the 1949 Hambletonian, Charles Phellis, Greenwich, Conn., 57 points.

THE years passed by and Doc continued to get a little more grey timber on his head each year, mostly from worrying of whether he would ever get that Hole-In-One while playing golf. His patience was rewarded on November 18, 1949 when that unexpected occurred.

Doctor H. B. Hunter, 314 South Park avenue, is now the proud possessor of a Walter Hagen Hole-In-One Club certificate and signed by the "Haig" himself. Doc Hunter has played on most of the golf courses in this section, but last November while on a trip decided to stop at the Grandview Course at Springfield, Mo., and in company with three other players he obtained the unexpected on the Seventeenth hole, 145 yards.

He shot with a Walter Hagen No. 6 iron. Much to his surprise it was one stroke, the ball was in the cup 145-yards away. He posted his card along with the names of the three witnesses with the Pro at Grandview, and Saturday he received his certificate.

"It's a thrill," he said, "Now I wonder if I'll ever get a second one." Which all goes to show, a golf player is never satisfied.

James J. Carroll Predicts Winners in Jan. 2 Bowl Games

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(P)—Pre-season dope indicated the Bears were of lesser stature than Southern Cal and possibly, Stanford. Scarcely anyone gave them a real shot at the coast title, even before injuries and ineptibilities hurt them badly at the start of the season.

But they started off winning and they never let up.
Score Comparisons
A comparison of scores against two mutual opponents, Southern Cal and Wisconsin, offers no real clue to the relative strength of the Bears and Buckeyes. California rallied to beat U. S. S. 16-10; Ohio State tied the Trojans, 13-13. California walloped Wisconsin 35-20; Ohio State trounced the same Badgers 21-0.

In making Kentucky's Wildcats even a three-point choice over Santa Clara Broncos. Carroll must have consulted a genuine oracle, for there is no real means of comparing the Orange Bowl rivals. They come from a long way apart and know each other only vaguely through films they have exchanged in recent weeks.

Kentucky possibly rates the nod on the strength of wins over Louisiana State and Georgia. Santa Clara's top efforts were its 7-7 tie with Stanford and the 21-28 scare it gave Oklahoma in the Sooners' own backyard.

Missouri's Record
Unless the commissioner knows something which doesn't show in the records, Missouri should appear to rate a little better than even against Maryland in the Gator Bowl. True, the Tigers form the mid-west dropped three decisions while Maryland lost only once, but their schedules scarcely compared.

Missouri's losses were to three such regional powers as Ohio State, Southern Methodist and Oklahoma—two of them contenders in major bowl games. Ohio State downed the Tigers only 35-34, Southern Methodist by 28-27. That's close going.

Maryland, on the other hand, met only one opponent of real national caliber, Michigan State, and bowed to the Spartans 14-7. One of the Terps best wins was their 33-7 trouncing of Georgetown which plays Texas Western in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, also on January 2.

The first of a rash of major bowl games is scheduled December 26 at Miami, Fla., the Shrine North-South game between two picked teams of college seniors. The Shrine East-West game, one of the oldest of the post-season classics, will be played December 31 in San Francisco. Arnold Galiffa, All-American quarterback on Army's undefeated team, is a member of the East squad.

Other Scheduled Bowls
Also scheduled in the last day of the year are the annual Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., involving college seniors, and the Raisin Bowl at Fresno, Calif., between San Jose and Texas Tech. January 1, the "big" day, also will pit Stanford against Hawaii at Honolulu in the Pineapple Bowl; Wofford against Florida State at Tampa in the Cigar Bowl; McMurry (Tex.) against Missouri Valley at Galveston in the Olean Bowl; Emory and Henry against St. Vincent (P.) at Orlando, Fla., in the Tangerine Bowl, and Arizona State (Tempe) against Xavier at Phoenix in the Salad Bowl.

The whole bowl business will be climaxed on January 7 at Jacksonville, when two crack teams of college stars meet in the Senior Bowl. That is the one in which

Walter Jessee Is Officer of B-J League

Vic Minert Was Re-Elected as The President

The Central Missouri Ban Johnson League, at a meeting held a week ago at Columbia, Mo., elected Walter Jessee, manager of the Sedalia Chiefs B. J. team as vice-president. The league also re-elected Vic Minert, of Boonville as president and re-elected Harry Harper, Mexico, Mo., as secretary-treasurer.

The league discussed plans to divide and enlarge the league to north and south divisions with six teams in each division. The plan if carried out will give the north division five additional teams in the league, and six in the division. New teams would come from Chillicothe, Princeton, New Town, Carrollton, Moline, with Brookfield, shifting from the south to the north.

The Vardon trophy went to Sedalia for his snappy average of 69.37 strokes for 13 eighteen-hole rounds.

A Double Grab
The double grab of money-winning and Vardon laurels was a repeat of Snead's performance in 1938 when he collected $19,534 (quite a tidy sum in those pre-inflation days) and won Vardon honors by a substantial margin.

Snead thus becomes only the second golfer to win the Vardon trophy twice or more. Ben Hogan, sidelined this year because of injury, won it three times, in 1940-41-48. Hogan was last year's leading money winner with $32,112.

Runner-up to Snead in the cash-collecting column was National Open champion Carry Middlecoff, whose $24,604 barely edged the third-spot harvest of $24,512 by fast-coming Johnny Palmer.

Palmer, an iron-nerved war veteran, finished second in the Vardon trophy competition with a 69.72 average for 80 rounds.

Fourth Money Winner
Fourth in money-winnings this year was Lloyd Mangrum with $22,248. Mangrum last year placed second behind Hogan with $31,289. Jimmy Demaret, from Ojai, Calif., was fifth with $17,367. Demaret was the 1947 money king with $27,936.

The 37-year-old Snead scored his biggest victories in the National P. G. A., Western Open and Masters' Tourneys. He also won the Dapper Dan, Washington Star and Greensboro opens.

Sixth in money winnings was E. J. Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., with $11,725 for a 70.43 average in 75 rounds.

Winners included Dick Metz, Arkansas City, Kas., ranked 14th with $5,736 for a 71-8 average in 68 rounds.

Other than the election of officers, discussion of the two-division league, routine business and finances were discussed. Every club in the league was represented at the meeting. From Sedalia were Vice-President Jesse, G. O. "Dutch" Hawley, Rudolph "Rudy" Bus, and M. C. "Cal" Rogers who sponsors the team.

The Sedalians reported the meeting indicated every team which has been in the league the past two years was ready to discuss enlarging the league into two divisions. The plan calls for a championship series to be played between the winner of the north and the winner of the south division. The winner of this play-off would be declared the league champions and will then meet the league champions from Kansas City, for the state title.

The state champions then play the Kansas champions for the national title.

New Candidates For Remedies For Stomach Ulcers

By Alton L. Blakeslee
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The search for remedies for stomach ulcers is turning up new candidates, among them a nerve-control drug, cabbage juice, a hormone and anti-acid pills.

Some look promising in their first trials on small numbers of ulcer patients. It cannot yet be said just what each might do to help any sizeable number of the 5,000,000 Americans who suffer from ulcers each year.

This is the picture to date: Just what causes ulcers of the stomach or duodenum, the first part of the intestine, is not known. Excess stomach acids are at least partly responsible. Rapid stomach movements also may contribute. Nerves and anxiety or tenseness apparently stimulates production of stomach acids. Cutting the vagus nerve, leading to the stomach, often leads to healing of ulcers.

Synthetic Drug

A synthetic drug, bantnine, that blocks the vagus nerve is being studied at Duke University by Dr. Keith S. Grimson and associates. X-rays show that the bad peptic ulcers of 20 patients all apparently healed. Pain stopped a few minutes after the tablets were swallowed. The stomach movements slowed down. In most patients, the amount of stomach acid dropped, in a few, the acid rose, but the ulcers also got well. The studies are continuing. One question is whether the ulcers will come back. So far, after about six months use of the drug, they haven't.

Drinks of a quart of cabbage juice a day show promising results against ulcers, Dr. Garnett Cheney of Stanford University medical school reports. The treatment still is experimental, and a doctor should direct it, he told the American Dietetic Association. Can't Resist Acids

This approach is based on the idea that one condition for ulcers is lack of normal resistance against acids by the mucosa or lining of the stomach and duodenum. This lack may be due at least partly to lack of something in the person's food. This anti-peptic ulcer factor in food has been called vitamin U.

Animal tests pointed to fresh cabbages and lettuce as effective in curing ulcers in guinea pigs, and even protecting the animals from ulcers. Fresh cabbage juice appears to be rich in the anti-ulcer factor.

Of 55 persons who drank a quart of juice daily, all but three had relief from pain and other distress in two to five days, Dr. Cheney said. "The three who didn't get relief had chronic ulcers. Healed in Eleven Days

X-ray pictures showed that the ulcers healed in about 11 days on the average, the physician said. The healing time in persons not getting the cabbage juice, but treated by other means, ranged from three to six weeks.

The study isn't complete, but results so far "are very encouraging," said Dr. Cheney. The treatment didn't cure people of their tendency to form ulcers.

again later. A diet which includes raw vegetables is being tested to determine whether it might prevent recurrences.

It isn't easy to prepare the juice, and not easy for some people to drink it. Other green vegetables, milk, butter, and egg yolk also appear to contain the mysterious anti-ulcer factor.

A hormone, antihelone, heals ulcers in animals and now is being tried on humans by Dr. David J. Sandweiss and associates of Harper hospital, Detroit. It is a female hormone produced during pregnancy. The reason for trying it is that women who become pregnant get relief from their ulcers during pregnancy.

Making Experiments

Anti-acids have long been used in treating ulcers. There are new synthetic resins designed to remove excess stomach acids, other drugs to protect the stomach lining, and others to kill pain. Experiments, still unsuccessful, are seeking chemicals that might prevent ulcers entirely. There are various special diets, usually built upon bland, smooth, non-irritating foods.

One odd thing about ulcers is that "every treatment succeeds in bringing relief, in time, in over 90 per cent of the cases," says Dr. Burrill B. Crohn of New York. "But nothing can be guaranteed yet to give permanent relief against recurrences."

Dr. Crohn, consultant in gastroenterology at Mt. Sinai hospital, is author of a helpful guide book, "Understand Your Ulcer" (Sheridan House).

Flare Up in Spring and Fall

Another odd thing is that ulcers flare up in the fall and spring. That's when doctors get most of their calls from ulcer victims. Head colds or attacks of sinus trouble also seem to fire up ulcers that had been inactive. Most doctors also believe that excessive smoking of cigarettes can light up a quiescent ulcer.

About five per cent of the population suffers from ulcers each year, and another five per cent have had them, Dr. Crohn says. People who live tense, emotional or intellectual lives are most likely to be affected.

Anxiety, worry and emotional upsets trigger off or accompany many or even most of the flare-ups of old ulcers. A severe nervous shock sometimes brings back the symptoms in a day or so. Nervous excitement over a thrilling football game, or worry over the international situation, can be bad for the ulcer patient.

The main problem is to keep the ulcer from coming back, Dr. Crohn writes. It's easy to give advice to control your emotions and try to live complacently, but it's tough advice to follow.

One survey shows that there are about 1,500,000 machines vending peanuts and other bulk products in the U. S.

There are about 250,000 cigarette vending machines now in operation in the United States.

3-In Memoriam
IN LOVING MEMORY of our husband and dad, Snode Thompson, who passed away 1 year ago, December 18, 1948. The face we loved is now laid low, His loving voice is still; The hand so often clasped in mine, Lies cold in death's cold chill. I often sit and think of him, When I am all alone; For memory is the only thing, That grief can call its own. Sadly missed by wife and children.

Welfare Office Clearing House for Giving Christmas Gifts

erful Christmas but she did not let her Christmas spirit die with the new year. Throughout the entire year she gave to that family. When the Christmas season came again this year she called the Welfare office again—this year she wanted two families.

There are many individuals who adopt families not just for Christmas but for the entire year, Mrs. Darnell said.

Ninety-five families have been adopted so far but there are 177 families in this community that have no one in the family able to work. That does not include the old people and the dependent children.

Like To Share

As we talked Mrs. Darnell received a telephone call. It was from someone who wanted to give a nice Christmas to just one person. Mrs. Darnell and Mrs. Con. were thrilled over that call. They knew a dear little widow, who is unable to work, and who is so appreciative of everything. They were grateful that somebody asked just for one person.

They had other people, too, where there was just one in the family and some old people, often an old couple, and they would be so glad to have someone ask to adopt them.

"What do they give, as a rule, to provide a Christmas?" we asked.

"A basket of groceries," Mrs. Darnell said, "Usually worth about $5.00, and a gift of somekind."

"What kind of gift?" we questioned.

"Handkerchiefs, bright ones, or ties, for the men, handkerchiefs or scarfs for the women, or anything personal."

Money Or Gifts Welcome

"The people who give may either call us for names and fix Christmas baskets and gifts themselves, or they may give us money and we will do it for them. Or, if they like, we will call the store where they trade and have a basket filled for them."

"Do people usually tell what type family they want?" we asked.

"Yes they do," Mrs. Darnell said. "Most of them think of children when they think of families. They usually ask for four or five in family. There are still a number of families with children that have not yet been taken—and there are many old people and other families who need a Merry Christmas, too."

Mrs. Darnell went on to tell they helped Santa Claus with the toys keeping them there until Christmas eve so Santa could pick them up.

Get Only Minimum

The neediest group Mrs. Darnell said was the 177 families with no one employable in the family who get only 55 per cent of the minimum they need a month to live.

When asked about the Buena Vista home Mrs. Darnell smiled. "Everybody asks about that," she said, "But they are well provided for. They have their pensions and they have been coming in town shopping for Christmas gifts for each other and having the best time. Then, too, the Buena Vista board is getting each one a gift. They are going to have a big Christmas—I hope every other deserving person can be given a good Christmas, too."

And so whether everyone in Sedalia has a nice Christmas will depend on just how many of those who have enough truly have Christmas in their hearts.

In Kansas City Hospital

Mrs. Elizabeth McGurran, 236 South Moniteau avenue, is a patient at St. Mary's hospital in Kansas City.

Woodland Hospital Notes

Admitted for medical treatment. Mrs. George Lutgen, Sr., 2603 South Ingram avenue.

Sedalia Carolers Bring Cheer To Many Shut-ins in the City

People who can sing always like to sing. That is why Mrs. Al Miles, Christmas carol chairman for the Helen G. Steele Music Club, who is in charge of the carol singing for the entire city of Sedalia, knows that there are many who would willingly give a little of their time to cheer some shut-ins if they only knew how much good it will do.

"People just can't imagine what carol singing means to people who are ill or shut-in," Mrs. Miles said. "Sometimes it just makes you want to cry when you see how they appreciate the time the carolers spend with them."

She told particularly of one woman who was unable to walk but was brought to the window each year to watch the carolers. Last year she heard them but was unable to go to the window to see them. This year she is gone.

Then she told of the hospitals and how the patients begged them to come in and sing to them and how often the families of someone ill would ask them to go to the room of a loved one and sing. "We just don't have enough carolers," Mrs. Miles said.

Call Mrs. Miles

If groups of singers would call

Mrs. Miles, telephone number 1187 she would like to put them on the list of carolers, and would arrange to put them on any time that would suit them. The more carolers the less time it will take from each group. Just a few shouldn't have to do all the singing.

To have carolers come to your home takes only a telephone call to Mrs. Miles, too. If you know of a shut-in who would enjoy the carolers let Mrs. Miles know.

In addition to the carol singing in the homes about town there will also be singing at the little red church in front of the court house during this week. The schedule as far as Mrs. Miles knows at present follows:

Monday afternoon: Hubbard High School Glee Club at 3:15 o'clock.

Smith-Cotton high school at 4:00 o'clock.

Tuesday afternoon: Washington school at 2:45 o'clock.

Horace Mann school at 3:30 o'clock.

Wednesday afternoon: Sacred Heart high school glee club, 3:45 o'clock.

St. Patrick's Girl Scouts, Troop 24, 4:00 o'clock.

Friday afternoon: Whittier school, 3:15 o'clock.

Secure Homes For Three Puppies

Three two-weeks old puppies escaped a "mercy killing" Saturday—thanks to a veterinarian, who contacted a representative of the Democrat newspaper, in connection with writing a story about the pups, in attempt to save them from being given euthanasia, something to put them to sleep, never to awaken again.

A farmer, who did not have the heart to kill the pups, brought them to Edwin E. Epstein, veterinarian at 213 West Main street for him to dispose of. But instead of killing them, he fed and sheltered the pups, hoping after the article appeared in the paper, the pups would be adopted by Sedalians.

That evening and Saturday morning, telephone calls to Dr. Epstein totaled 32. The first to get their calls in were: Mrs. Bernice Merrick, Ruth Ann Young and Jimmy and Richard Hart, who said they would provide a home for the little orphans.

Young People Prepare For Square Dance

Members of Sedalia's Teen-Town and Pettis county's two Rural Youth Organization clubs will participate in the Liberty Theater's Square Dance contest to be held on the stage at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night in conjunction with the final showings of "Square Dance Jubilee" and "Hollywood Barn Dance."

The Teen-Town team will feature Mikey Hayes as caller, their dance being the "Butterfly Whirl." Paul Shippis will direct the "Fun and Laughter RYO" group through their "First and Third" turn and Herman McMullin will call for the "Tri-Community RYO" when they do the "Grapevine Twist."

Trophies To Be Awarded

A trophy for the winning square and caller will be presented by Reed and Son, jewelers of Sedalia, sponsors of the show.

As an added attraction, the Harper School of Dancing will present four novelty dance acts: "Hollywood Square Dance" will feature Sharon Loveall, Beverly Gamber, Jane Knight, Mynä Yeager, Joyce Evans and Norma June Knight. Joyce Moreland, Dale Harris and Linda Kroenke will do "Country Style." "Put Your Shoes On, Lucy" will feature Mary Lee Clark, Dolores Dennis and Leiloni Smith, and Vickie Loveall and Sue Ann Joy will do "Dangerous Dan McGrew."

A Square Dance band and appropriate stage settings will round out the show.

very proud of a set of records, known as talking records, which record persons reading books. Joe can operate a typewriter and said he enjoyed roller-skating.

In Scout Work

At the present time, he is teaching the Morse code to scout group 54, and is willing to instruct other troops that desire to learn the code signals. Joe is a member of the Lions club and of St. Patrick's church.

Except from telling day from night, he is totally blind, and uses the word "see" quite a bit in his conversation. For instance, he said he went to see his younger sister in Detroit last summer. He does a lot of kidding with his buddies who drop in for a chat. He remembers people by their voices, and can call a number of people by their name, after he hears them speak.

In 1948 Joe took a course in operating a concession stand at Springfield. He said the training was set for five weeks, but after three weeks he left for Monett to take over a stand, formerly run by a blind person, who became ill. He later operated a stand at Butler for over a year, and then came to Sedalia last September.

Standers Are Sponsored

The stands are sponsored by the Business Opportunities for the Missouri Blind, Inc. The state pays for the stand fixtures, and the Lions clubs contribute so much money each year for the purpose of purchasing opening stock for the operators. Once the operator gets set up to run a stand, he is expected to sell enough merchandise to pay for his salary, which is $15 a week. The blind also get a pension.

Joe has varied supplies at his stand, anywhere from a candy bar to a hair brush. He even has an order catalogue for persons wanting to order special Christmas gifts, and a large collection of magazines. "I try to sell anything the people want to buy," Joe said.

A bystander could learn from Joe, just watching him meet the public and operate his shop. One thing about the money situation, he never accepts anything higher than a dollar bill, because in currency he can't tell the different denominations. But one can't fool him with coins. He makes change like an expert cashier, and in one respect has it over them. He can name a coin by hearing the sound of it when it is dropped on the floor.

Trained by GM

Maurice Calvin Rodgers, Jr., of the Cal Rodgers Pontiac Co., Fifth street and Osage avenue, who for the past eight weeks has been attending the General Motors Dealership Management Training Program at the General Motors Institute, Flint, Mich., has completed his course and is enroute back home.

Since the program's inception, two years ago, approximately 500 men have been chosen to receive this type of training and education. In the most recent class young Rodgers was one of 45 men from 23 states in attendance. The program is designed to provide basic training in principles of the effective operation of a General Motors dealership, and includes dealership accounting, management, administration, finances, new and used car sales, service and parts merchandising.

Upon his return he will be associated in Pontiac business with his father Cal Rodgers.

Held Annual Yuletide Party

The Sedalia Retail Credit Association held its annual Christmas party and banquet in the Ambassador room of the Bothwell hotel Friday night. Harold Seaburg, president of the association presided over the meeting.

Following the banquet Christmas carol singing was led by Charles W. Hanna. A trio composed of Maxine Noely, Marion and Bill Jesse played several numbers.

Santa Claus (John Ryan) presented Christmas favors to those present.

Tom Hill, prominent speaker of Kansas City addressed the group with a talk on salesmanship. He said that salesmanship was based on the intangible; the manner in which a salesman presented himself, the way he assembles his prospective customers and holds their interests.

He stressed that all salesmanship is based on two principals, profit and pleasure.

Mr. Hill said honesty is the only way to sell anything, there is no other way.

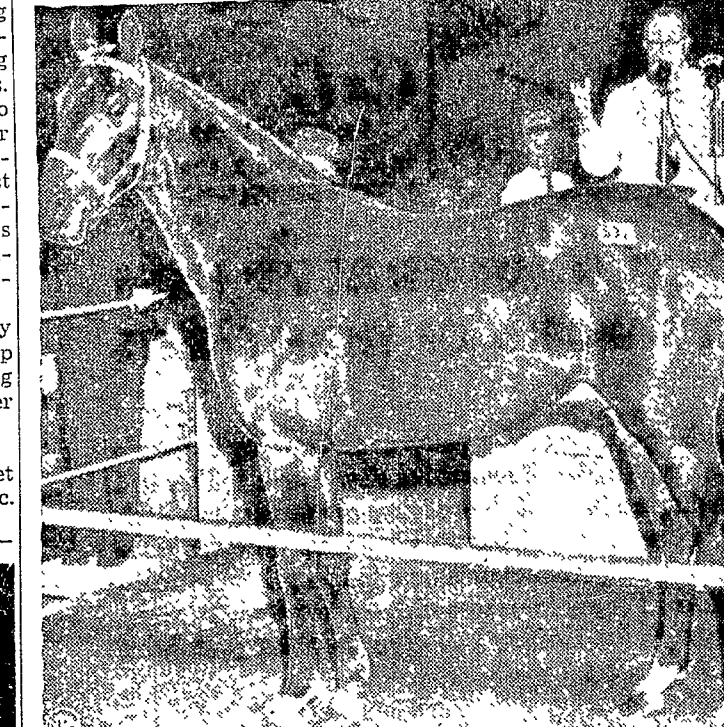

"Everyone is a salesman" Hill told the group, "regardless what he sells." He continued by saying that every salesman should possess a smattering of the working knowledge of the product he sells. The good salesman, according to Hill must also make decisions for the customer without the customer knowing it. He said that most people shy away from making decisions and the salesman that helps the customer in this respect without irritating the prospect is doing a good job.

Hill was highly complimentary on the fine job of salesmanship John F. Zander is doing by selling Sedalia not only here but all over the country as well.

Group Formed For Protestant Church Unity

Represent Seven Churches With 16,000,000 Members

GREENWICH, Conn., Dec. 17—(AP)—A drive to unite the nation's Protestant churches was thrown into high gear Friday when formation of an official organization dedicated to that purpose.

Seven church groups representing between 14,000,000 and 16,000,000 parishioners joined in the new "conference on church union," which will seek a plan for organic unity of the Protestant churches in America.

These groups are the Methodist church, the Disciples of Christ, the Evangelical and Reformed church, the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., the Congregational Christian churches, Northern Province of the Moravian church and the African Methodist Episcopal Zion church.

The conference which has met here for three days avoided a mistake made thirty years ago by a similar meeting in Philadelphia which offered a blue print for a United Protestant church.

That plan died when the first denominational ruling body to act upon it—that of the Presbyterian church of the U. S. A.—voted it down.

The new conference seeks gradual evolution of a plan from the grass roots—through a series of separate, denominational meetings.

Machinery was set up by which a new plan for a United Protestant church is expected to be placed before the newly formed conference at its next meeting, to be held not later than early 1951.

This "make haste slowly," approach was expected by the conferees to achieve quicker results than the sudden offering of another blue print for Protestant unification which might be vetoed immediately again.

Bishop Holt Chairman
A veteran of the long and successful battle for bringing 8,500,000 Methodists into one church was named as chairman of the continuing executive committee.

He is Bishop Ivan Lee Holt of St. Louis, president of the Methodist World Federation and president of the Methodist Council of Bishops.

He called the three-day convocation "one of the most important Protestant meetings ever held in the United States."

Almost a Hero

Boyd Richard Philip, four-year-old Clifton, N. J., youngster, will have to wait for a more suitable adventure to win a hero's acclaim. Boyd, found beside a fishpond with his soaked three-year-old playmate, Peggy Ure, was hailed as an heroic rescuer by the Clifton Hero Awards committee, who said that he would be their 1949 nominee. The halo was withdrawn, however, when Peggy's father revealed that the two children had been pushing each other in and a neighbor rescued the child in distress. Meanwhile, Boyd tries his fishing hand at home. (AP Wirephoto)

17 On Plane Were Killed

Mexico Airliner Crashed In Rough Mountain Area

JALAPA, Mex., Dec. 17—(AP)—All 17 passengers and crew of a Mexico-Merida airliner were reported killed Friday in a crash 20 miles northwest of here, in Vera Cruz state.

The mayor of the village of Chiconquialco, in a report to Jalapa police, said he visited the wreck and found no survivors. He said the plane apparently crashed in the early morning fog and burned. There were no witnesses, he told police.

The 13 passengers included C.

LaFleur, Louisiana and Texas oilman, and Carlos Grossman, Russian-born and a naturalized Mexican who formerly lived in New York City.

Jalapa police sent an expedition into the rough mountains to the crash scene. It was expected back at midnight (CST).

Crashed And Burned

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16—(AP)—A plane, believed to be the missing Mexico-Merida Airliner with 17 persons aboard, tonight was reported to have crashed and burned in the mountains near Jalapa, Vera Cruz state.

The reported crash occurred early today. The airliner has been missing since 6:05 a. m. (CST). It carried 13 passengers and a crew of four.

Juan Pesado, inspector of state police at Jalapa, said by telephone he had sent a squad of police and doctors at 7 p. m. (EST) to investigate the crash report and expected them back about midnight. He added there are no roads or wire communications in the area. A search plane also was sent from Mexico City to the Jalapa area.

Horses Munch On Shiny Car Fenders

PRINCETON, Mo., Dec. 17—(AP)—Gene McVay went hunting and parked his car in a pasture where there were two horses.

When he got back his shiny black car had the marks of horse's teeth on the doors, the fenders and the sides.

He figured the animals had seen their reflections in the newly waxed surface, and just didn't like the looks of what they saw.

Kostov Hanged On Conviction Of Treason

Broadcast On Execution Made Early Today

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Saturday, Dec. 17—(AP)—Former Deputy Premier Traicho Kostov was hanged late yesterday for treason, spying and sabotage, an authoritative source said early today.

(Reports of his execution were broadcast by the Bulgarian radio and heard in London and Rome.) Kostov, 52, was formerly secretary of the Bulgarian Communist party's central committee. The report of his execution came less than 40 hours after his conviction and sentencing.

Official confirmation of the execution was not immediately available.

Kostov was said to have applied for clemency to the 31-member presidium of the Grand National Assembly, Bulgaria's parliament, but to have been turned down.

The Bulgarian radio Friday night broadcast an announcement of the execution of Kostov. This broadcast, heard in both London and Rome, said Kostov had asked that his sentence be commuted to life imprisonment but that the plea had been rejected.

The radio said the condemned man in his plea had admitted guilt on all the charges. During the trial he had denied the most serious ones.

Astra, an Italian news agency which monitored the broadcast in Rome, quoted the announcement as having said Kostov had expressed "sincere sorrow" for his attitude in court. He was said to have blamed it on "nervous irritation" and "the unhealthy ambition of an intellectual."

At the opening of his trial Dec. 7, Kostov repudiated most of his pre-trial confession. His stand was in contrast with that of his co-defendants, who admitted their guilt in open court.

In addition to his death sentence, Kostov was stripped of his civil rights, fined a million leva ($3,500), and deprived of all his properties.

Five of his codefendants were sentenced to life imprisonment and also were fined a million leva each and permanently deprived of their civil rights. The other five—found guilty of blanket charges they had plotted with Tito and the Anglo-Americans to overthrow the present Bulgarian regime, spied and committed sabotage—received lesser fines and sentences. These sentences ranged from 10 to 20 years. All their civil rights were rescinded.

Clifton City Holiday Party

Mrs. J. J. Potter was hostess to the Clifton City Homemakers Club at the annual Christmas party and program, which was an all day session at her home Wednesday, December 7. There were 19 members present and three visitors. The visitors were Mrs. Susie Todd, Mrs. John Dove and Mrs. G. V. Streit.

The home was decorated in the Christmas motif with lighted candles and a decorated Christmas tree under which the gifts were placed for the hostess and exchange of gifts for secret pals.

At noon a contributive dinner was served from a long dining room table which was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with Christmas greens and lighted candles.

Following the dinner Mrs. J. J. Potter, the president, called the meeting to order, having the group sing "Silent Night."

Roll Call was answered by each telling of "My Best Christmas."

After the business meeting the program leader, Mrs. George Grose, took charge. Her program was: "Christmas Customs in Other Lands," and many of the members read an article or gave a brief talk on the Christmas custom of a foreign land, which was very different from our country. Gifts were then exchanged and secret pals revealed and everyone present received a gift.

Crossroads Comment

by G. H. S.

There may be momentary thrills riding the sled of personal security down a snow-covered mountain of promises. But when the ride must end by a plunge into the chasm of bankruptcy there ought to be some consideration given to diverting the sled track.

The best minds of the country in and out of either political party will concede the truism of this observation. Politicians will admit it privately but not publicly. The idea of personal security provided by a Santa Claus government appeals to the masses, who child-like sit about the hearthstone awaiting with voting enthusiasm the arrival out of the flue of Mr. Whiskers.

A great many of our older people may participate in so-called anticipated benefits. But the inevitable collapse of a program of getting something for nothing, which is contrary to all axioms of the laws of nature and humanity, will be the inheritance of those young people now reaching maturity, and their progeny.

Already many fair-minded leaders in our country, originally inspired by the humanitarian project of a welfare state, are appealing, for retardation of the sled ride toward disaster. This in itself is a clue that something is wrong with our national planning. Yet many stubborn minds once set upon a course prefer to ride to perdition rather than admit an error in judgment. These same bull-heads in national affairs will not yield or compromise anymore than their typical counterparts back home in the precincts, in the lodge halls, in the homes dealing with the local problems of life; yes even obdurate counterparts in the churches where there's too much picking the preacher to pieces.

The times are right for more plain talk from level-headed citizens without political aspirations, citizens who really have the national welfare at heart who can inspire the young people with the gospel, "If any would not work, neither should he eat;" teach them to abominate the growing hordes of chiselers on relief and unemployment rolls, these who more than any other group deserve the over-done appellative, "selfish interests."

One hundred and nine years ago near Warsaw, Missouri there must have been a whale of an auction sale. Then, it was highly advertised by hand bill distribution. Copies of the hand bill are bobbing up every now and then in dusty attics.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lopp, R.D. 1, Smithton, used to live in Warsaw and were interested in a reproduction of the sale bill in the Benton County Guide. Warden Leiber, near Bentonville, while cleaning out a stack of old papers at his home, found the ancient sale bill. Here's a part of what was printed on it:

"Having sold my farm and am leaving for Oregon territory by team, will offer on March 11, 1840, all ox teams, except two teams, Ben and Buck, Tom and Jerry . . . 550 10-foot fence rails, 60 gallon soap kettle, 85 sugar troughs made of white ash lumber, spinning wheels, large loom made by Jerry Wilson . . . 32 gallons Johnson-Miller whiskey, 20 gallons apple cider, 40 gallon copper still, 32 calibre rifle made by Ben Miller, six head of fox hounds, all soft mouth, except one . . . At the same time I will sell six Negro slaves, two men, 35 and 40 years old, two boys, two mulatto wenches, 40 years old. Will sell all of them as will not separate them. Terms of sale: Cash in hand or note to draw for per cent interest with Bob Connell as security. Plenty to eat and drink."

The Missouri legislature is so far behind enacting laws for safer highway driving, one wonders if the solons will ever catch up with the need of the times.

An Indiana law provides that every high school student be required to devote a minimum of 20 hours each semester to the study of highway safety and motor car driving.

Missouri hasn't gone beyond a two-bit driver's license for anyone who never sat behind a steering wheel.

Passing laws for more leisure puts more drivers on the highways and needs to be supplemented by adequate restrictions and training programs.

You are supposed to weigh less when the moon is directly overhead than when it is on the horizon. This might explain, too, why moonlight spooners become so light-headed.

Australia Didn't Necessarily Reject Welfare State Theme

By Bruce Blossat

For the second time in about two weeks, a Labor government entrenched for many years has been beaten at the polls. But before we call it a trend, we ought to examine the circumstances.

On Nov. 30 New Zealand voters tossed out the Labor Party which had governed that island nation for 14 straight years. On Dec. 10 the same fate came to the Australian Labor government after eight years in office.

The almost inevitable reaction to these results will be great rejoicing among champions of free enterprise and predictions that Britain's Labor government will be the next to fall. But the facts are not quite that simple.

A look at the outcome in Australia will show us why we have to be cautious in appraising it. In the first place, nationalization was not an issue—as it would be in Britain. The Australian constitution forbids the nationalizing of industry. So in the strictest sense it was not socialism that was being voted upon.

The Labor government had sponsored a broad program of pensions, child endowments and other social benefits; hence it bore strong resemblances to the welfare state so much discussed in our own country.

But the hitch is that neither the Liberal nor the Country Parties, the two which in combination unseated Australia's Labor group, proposed to eliminate or even to trim these benefits. Thus if the real danger from "big government" lies in the establishment and growth of such welfare features, the new leaders presumably will not do much to arrest that trend.

What did the candidates talk about? The successful challengers demanded a "return to free enterprise," promised to overhaul tax laws, urged the importation of more gasoline and an end to its rationing, and called for the outlawing of the Communist Party.

Either the voters found these demands and pledges attractive or they somehow decided that the challengers were desirable merely because they were different and a change was needed.

Whichever is the correct view, the conclusion must be about the same: the Labor Party was turned out because Australians are fed up with shortages and controls and the men whom they hold responsible for them; they obviously don't want to part with their social benefits, but they do want a fresh approach to their problems.

Some such feeling must have been at work, for the voters switched allegiance despite the fact that the nation is prosperous and there is full employment buttressed by high wages. Seldom in the United States is a party thrown out of power when times are good.

An overturn under these conditions is impressive. And yet, as observed earlier, there is no evidence that a big reversal of fundamental welfare state trends is in prospect.

Those who wish to hail the result as an important first step toward a reversal are going out on a slender limb. Most outsiders probably will prefer to adopt a "wait and see" attitude.

Caution demands watching further happenings in Australia and standing by to see whether or not the elections there and in New Zealand may indeed be the start of a real rebound that will be reflected in Britain's voting next summer.

Eisenhower Has His Work Cut Out if He Plans to Run in 1952

Friends of President Truman say he views Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as an active bidder for the Presidency in 1952.

They do not say so, but presumably he sees the general as a candidate for the Republican nomination. Certainly Eisenhower's public utterances are not in a vein that can be easily reconciled with Democratic Fair Deal philosophy.

Eisenhower himself is of course denying his candidacy with almost as much regularity as he did in the campaign year 1948. But it is true he is speaking out more and more on the chief issues of the day.

Moreover, a clear pattern of thinking is emerging from his statements. He is resolutely opposed to the welfare state, to bigness in government, to emphasis upon security at the expense of self-reliance, all the things the Republicans say the Democrats stand for.

Ike's recent "hot dogs and beer" speech, in which he advised the average man to scale down his dreams from the champagne level, is said to have convinced Mr. Truman the general is trying to build up strength for entry into the political arena.

The President's intimates add that despite his great admiration for the general as a soldier he regards him as strictly an amateur in politics.

An old political axiom has it that no one ever wins a party presidential nomination without working like a Trojan for it. If Mr. Truman is right and Eisenhower really wants to run, then he has a lot of work ahead of him.

Assuming that ambition, we'll soon see how much of an amateur he is. His present heavy round of speech-making may indeed be the first step along the road. Many candidates in the past have begun their determined drive in this fashion.

But there is much more to it than keeping in the public eye and outlining one's views. In the very process of telling where he stands, Eisenhower is bound to lose some of that huge reservoir of popular esteem he has enjoyed since World War II ended.

So long as he was silent, any citizen could imagine the general stood with him. Now many must know he does not. Inevitably that will impair his vote-getting appeal. Thus the general's task is somehow to hold as much as he can of his magnetic strength while still forthrightly declaring his principals. A neat trick.

Furthermore, Eisenhower is a political outsider. Though the general hunch is that he is a Republican, he has never said so. The professional leaders in the GOP will not be after him so long as they believe they can win without him. Outsiders are too hard to manage. Other things being equal, a party faithful will always get the nod.

So if Ike really wants to carry the flag in 1952 he will have the tough job of selling himself to the professionals. Wendell Willkie bowled them over in 1940 by extreme effort but they repaid him by crushing his further ambitions in 1944. The regulars are tough to beat and most candidates don't try.

This is what lies ahead of Eisenhower if he has actually set out to capture the GOP nomination, as Mr. Truman suspects.

If, on the other hand, he still means it when he says he isn't a candidate, then all this speculation is a pipe-dream and Eisenhower is just availing himself of the happy American privilege of saying what he thinks about his government. We'll know which it is by 1952, if not before.

Whether we want to or not . . . we have to play an important role. . . . There is no half-way house. . . . Either India makes good (or) she just fades away.

—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India.

SAMSON

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 12th of a series from the Old Testament. The text is condensed from selections by Houston Hartle for the new book, "In Our Image." Illustration by Guy Rowe also from the book.

And the Philistines had dominion over Israel. And Samson went and caught three hundred foxes, and took firebrands, and turned tail to tail and put a firebrand in the midst between two tails. And when he had set the brands on fire, he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines and burnt up the shocks and also the standing corn, with the vineyards and olives. Then the Philistines said, Who hath done this? And they answered, Samson.

Then the Philistines went up, and spread themselves in Lehi. And Samson came unto Lehi, and the Spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him, and he found a new jawbone of an ass, and put forth his hand, and took it, and slew a thousand men therewith.

And it came to pass afterward that he loved a woman in Sorek, whose name was Delilah. And the lords of the Philistines came and said to her, Entice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what means we may prevail against him, that we may bind him to afflict him; and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of silver.

Delilah said to Samson, Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth, and where-with thou mightest be bound to afflict thee, And Samson said, If they bind me with seven green withes that were never dried, then shall I be weak, as another man. Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withes which had not been dried and she bound him.

And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he brake the withes, so his strength was not known. And Delilah said unto Samson, thou has told me lies; now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said, If they bind me fast with new ropes, then shall I be weak and be as another man. Delilah therefore took new ropes, and bound him. And he brake them from off his arms like a thread.

And Delilah said, How canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? And she pressed him daily and urged him so that his soul was vexed unto death, that he told her all his heart, and said, There hath not come a razor upon mine head; if I be shaven, my strength will go from me.

And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she called for the lords of the Philistines. And she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called for a man to shave off the locks of his head; and his strength went from him.

And the Philistines took him and put out his eyes, and bound him with fetters of brass; and he did grind in prison. Howbeit the hair of his head began to grow again. Then the lords of the Philistines gathered together to rejoice. And when their hearts were merry, they said, Call for Samson, that he may make us sport. And they called for Samson out of the prison house; and he made them sport; and they set him between the pillars. And

'Twas the Night Before Christmas

Music Modes

EVERY Christmas the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" is connotative with the Yuletide season. Every year it is presented all over the United States and yet few people know anything about its origin. They know that George Frederic Handel wrote this masterpiece but why, when or where are questions left resting unanswered.

The familiar words "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ, the Lord . . . Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men"—in Handel's great oratorio, he transplants us to the plains of Bethlehem and creates the story of the first Christmas. "The Messiah" has become so well known that even those who have never heard the work know about it just as they know about any great work of art that has attained prominence throughout the world.

An Immediate Success

Two-hundred and six years ago, when the oratorio was first performed it was an immediate success.

George Friedrich Handel was born a German and later became George Frederic Handel, an English citizen. After becoming subject of the British he lived most of his life in London. He began to toss innumerable operas on the completion shelf with the facility of a modern song writer. Handel's musical abilities endeared him to all and he became one of England's most popular impresarios. Then the people began to tire of his operas and he lost most of his fortune by staging operas to dust covered seats. The lack of interest and audiences sank his financial boat and broke his heart. He became despondent, ill and finally suffered a paralytic stroke.

Samson said to the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them.

Now the house was full of men and women, and all the lords of the Philistines were there, and there were upon the roof about three thousand men and women. And Samson called unto the Lord, and said, O Lord God, strengthen me, I pray thee, that I may be avenged of the Philistines for my two eyes.

And Samson took hold of the two pillars upon which the house stood, and he bowed himself with all his might, and the house fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein. So the dead which he slew at his death were more than they which he slew in his life. Then his brethren and all the house of his father came down, and took him, and brought him up, and buried him in the burying place of his father.

Right Arm Useless

The stroke left him with his right arm useless—he could no longer conduct or play and it looked like his art was lost.

Handel was not a man to fall to his misfortune. His love of life and of composing music was so intense that he summoned all his strength and started out on a different vein of musical composition six weeks later, in June, the oratorio. An oratorio is formance was repeated. The early music using a holy text and employing orchestras, soloists and choruses. London theatrical performances in Handel's time were banned during Lent and the oratorios gave the music lovers an opportunity to hear good music of standing during the "Hallelujah" chorus when they could not "lujah" chorus was originated. go to the opera. Handel created King George II was so moved by oratorios that were more thrilling the power of this chorus that he than London audiences ever stood up in his box. me, and the Great God Himself."

Later the same year Handel was invited to Dublin, Ireland, where he was to conduct a charity o'clock Thursday night in the program. Accompanying him were Smith-Cotton high school auditors several singers and the completed torium. This vocal group will be score of "The Messiah." It All Adds up to Being Interested in Other People

Why is it that one woman can move to a new town and in a short time become a real part of the community, while another housewife can move to a new place and years later still feel that she doesn't belong and that home is somewhere else?

Here are some of the more important reasons for the difference. One woman makes up her mind immediately that wherever she lives is home. The other refuses to stop thinking of home as being the place she has left.

One woman makes an effort to become a part of the community by immediately becoming an active church member, letting it be known that she is willing to work in P. T. A. and other community projects. The other hangs back waiting to be urged to take part in whatever is going on.

One woman is interested enough in other people to remember their names, their interests, etc. So the step from stranger to acquaintance to friend is often accomplished in a hurry for her. The other can meet the same person several times without recognition. She blames it on a poor memory for names, but what it actually is, of course, is a lack of interest in other people.

Good Intentions Never Seem to Jell

One woman is prompt about returning any hospitality that is offered to her. The other has good intentions—but it takes a long time to get around to following up an invitation with one of her own.

One woman is vitally interested in her new town and everything that affects it. The other is interested mainly in how it is inferior to the place she left.

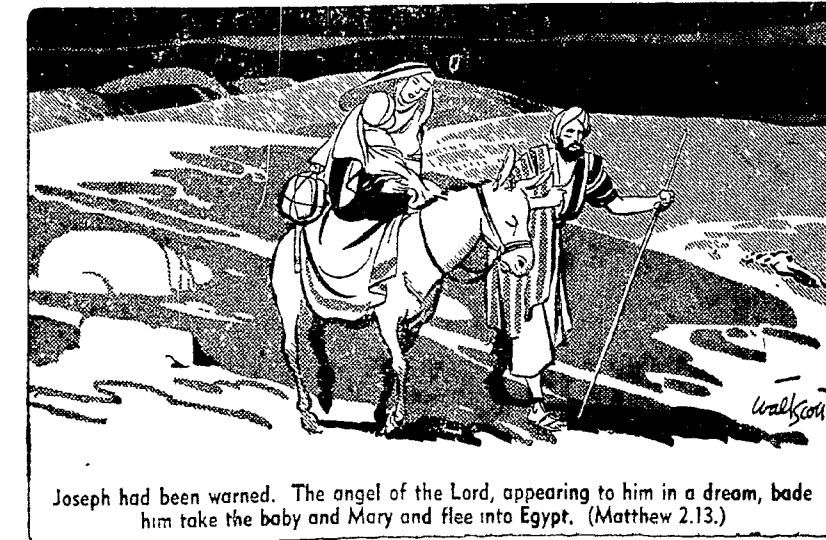

One woman has her life so arranged that she can offer hospitality on the spur of the moment—making the most of chance opportunities for getting better acquainted with the people she meets. The other has to know days in advance if she is to have guests.

Those are some of the reasons why one woman can fit herself into a new environment in short order—and another woman remains an outsider for a long time. (All rights reserved NEA Service, Inc.)

THE STORY OF THE SAVIOR

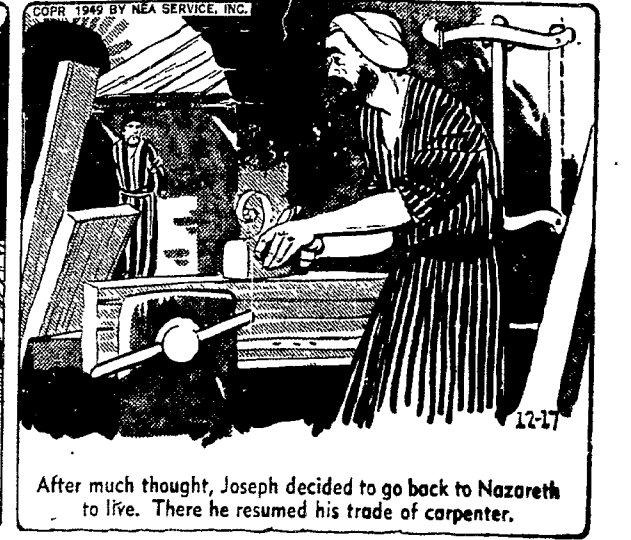

Joseph had been warned. The angel of the Lord, appearing to him in a dream, bade him take the baby and Mary and flee into Egypt. (Matthew 2:13.)

The Flight Into Egypt

They remained there until Herod's death, when again an angel appeared in a dream and told Joseph to take his family into the land of Israel. (Matthew 2:19, 20.)

After much thought, Joseph decided to go back to Nazareth to live. There he resumed his trade of carpenter.

Santa and the MAGICIAN

Chapter 12
THE AWFUL CURSE

THE Wiggle Wagglers burst into Santa Land screaming and honking their blue noses and wiggling and wagging their tremendous saucer ears in the most terrifying way.

They surrounded Santa's yard where all the story book guests had been having such a lovely party with the Santa Land folk. "Break up the party!" bellowed the Wiggle Wagglers. "Grab the food! Burst open the shops! Steal the Christmas toys! Tie Santa in knots!"

As they shouted they really set about doing all these terrible things. One ugly Wiggle Waggle grabbed little Bo Peep by the hair and kicked furiously at her poor sheep. Another chased the Gingerbread Man around and around the house. He finally did catch him and bite off a chunk of the boy's shoulder. Another snatched Boy Blue's horn and smashed it to pieces.

Henry saw Zepp, the leader of these wicked creatures. "Why have you come here like this?" cried Henry. "Don't you know Santa can destroy you with a wave of his magic wand?"

"Let's see him do it," retorted Zepp.

Now Santa had gone into the house to get his magic wand from the little black box. At this very moment he came out on the porch.

"Save us! Save us!" cried all the frightened guests. "Change the wicked ones into gum drops!" shouted his own little folk.

Santa nodded. Slowly he waved his wand from side to side. "Let all the Wiggle Wagglers turn to gum drops!" he whispered.

HARDLY were the words out of his mouth than the magic began to work. But heavens! instead of the curse falling on the wicked Wiggle Wagglers, his own Santa Land workers and all their guests began turning into gum drops!

Santa cried out in surprise. He waved the wand again. It did no good. His people were gum drops. The Wiggle Wagglers were free and more powerful than ever.

"Well," said Zepp to Henry, "What do you think of Santa's magic wand now?"

"I-I don't understand," mumbled Henry.

Zepp pulled a magic wand from his coat. "Perhaps Santa would prefer this wand!"

Henry looked and suddenly he knew what had happened. Zepp had given Henry his own wicked wand and kept Santa's for himself. With the Wiggle Waggle's wand Santa could work no magic for good and could never destroy the Wiggle Wagglers.

"WE'LL GET AWAY ON THE REINDEER," CRIED SANTA.

Now the Wiggle Wagglers began running about the yard picking up gum drops and stuffing them in their pockets. Only Santa, Mr. Dilly and Henry remained. I expect they, too, would soon have turned into gum drops if Santa had not just then called, "Quickly follow me!"

He began running towards the barn where his reindeer were kept. "We'll get away on the reindeer," cried Santa as he led Henry and Mr. Dilly across the snow.

The Wiggle Wagglers were too busy to follow. They picked up all the gum drops and lapped up the party food and crashed through all the Christmas toys. They pulled the arms off teddy bears, punched out doll baby eyes, stuck holes in balloons, smashed blackboards.

Breaking up things was their idea of fun but soon they grew tired even of this and began squabbling among themselves. The Wiggle Wagglers, you know, are the world's most quarrelsome folk. They are not happy unless they are squabbling. That is why no one else wanted to have them around.

"Let's go after Santa now," said Zepp.

"But," said Humphrey, "I heard them say they would escape on the reindeer."

Zepp snorted. "Don't worry. We will catch them."

Then the Wiggle Wagglers began to quarrel. "What shall we do with Santa? Turn him into a worm? No, stupid, a turtle. No, no, a fly! Why not turn him into a baseball bat?"

Zepp put an end to the fuss. "I can't turn him into anything with this wand," he said, looking at Santa's wand. "It works only for good. We'll just have to catch Santa and his two friends, and destroy them without magic."

With a whoop of delight the Wiggle Wagglers charged towards the barn, honking their blue noses and tripping over one another in their eagerness.

"After this," screamed Zepp, "We will be the only magic folk left in the whole world. Think of how much fun we can have frightening little children! And think how awful they will feel when Santa never comes to their homes again!"

HOLY YEAR: Its Vivid History Goes Back to 1300

By Frank Brutto
AP Newsfeatures

VATICAN CITY — War, chaos left by war, threat of war, plague and disorder were background, and sometimes foreground, for nearly all 24 past Jubilees of the Catholic church.

But in the past, as for the 1950 Holy Year declared by Pope Pius XII, the hope for peace and the uplifting of men's hearts to spiritual life were primary motives for calling Jubilees.

Countless thousands came, despite the hardships of long journeys, perils of war and the threat of bandits. From France in the Middle Ages many devout Christians made 50-day barefoot walking pilgrimages.

For the first Catholic Jubilee of which there is definite record—that declared by Pope Boniface VIII in 1300—pilgrims came to Rome in such great numbers that they filled the streets "like an army that grows day by day."

Many, came on foot, the very old borne on the shoulders of the young. They came singing hymns.

When the second Jubilee was called in 1350 by Pope Clement VI the papacy was established at Avignon. Clement never came to Rome, where anarchy and disorder were then rampant and there was plague—the plague described by Boccaccio in his Decameron. The earthquake of 1349 had wrought havoc in France and Germany. In Rome the roof of the Lateran basilica fell and the Basilica of Saint Paul was damaged.

Ludwig the Bavarian descended upon Rome and put it to fire and sword. The winter was unusually bitter. But even so more pilgrims came than in 1300. The fourth Jubilee was announced by Pope Boniface IX for 1400. Trouble continued to tear Rome, which was divided by the antipapal schism. The plague killed 700 to 800 daily and bitterness rose against the Pope but large numbers made the perilous pilgrimage.

The pestilence that had been spreading in Italy entered Rome during the sixth Holy Year, set by Nicholas V in 1450. Hospitals, churches and houses were full of the dead and dying. Paolo dello Mastro, a writer of that day, reported that people "fell dead in the streets like dogs." But pilgrims, nonetheless, continued to come to Rome.

Opening of the seventh Jubilee—that of Sixtus IV in 1475—found comparatively good times in Italy.

Infamy was widespread and in high places when Alexander VI, who was Rodrigo Borgia, member of the then powerful family, declared the eighth Holy Year for 1500. It was this year that the ceremony of the holy door was established.

The ninth Holy Year—called by Clement VII in 1525—found the Catholic church in the midst of a bitter fight with Martin Luther, apostate monk. Later it was embroiled with Henry VIII of England.

The tenth Holy Year, that of Julius III in 1550, found Catholicism renaissance. But when Gregory XIII called the 11th Holy Year in 1575, pestilence—from which strangely Rome itself appeared to be spared—was rampant in Italy. Clement XIV, who called the 12th Jubilee in 1775, died, and the Holy Year was celebrated by his successor, Pius VI, whose reign was troubled and complicated by the French revolution. Assailed by the Kingdom of Naples and Joseph II of Austria, Pius VI was taken to France, where he died in exile at Valence.

No opening ceremony marked the 21st Holy Year called by Pope Pius IX in 1875, a year when the Vatican was beleaguered and its relations with many states had deteriorated.

The world was still suffering from the shock of World War I

HOLY YEAR HAS QUOTA OF ODDITIES

VATICAN CITY — (AP) — "Angelic airplanes" to help put 1950 Holy Year pilgrims in a pious mood is one of the odd suggestions received by the Holy Year central committee.

It doubtless will not be adopted, but it recalls oddities of past Jubilees. In 1625, Pope Urban VIII, as a measure of penance and as 'decorum and cleanliness' forbade the clergy to chew tobacco in church during the Jubilee of that year.

A hundred years later—in the 1725 Holy Year—Pope Benedict XIII lifted the excommunication and fines that had been imposed by Pope Innocent XI against priests who chewed tobacco.

This pontiff, following the example of Pope Clement VIII and of Pope Innocent X, who had prohibited games and carnivals.

That same year, chroniclers say, grasshoppers infested the fields about Rome and threatened crops. The Pope appeared on the loggia of Saint John Lateran and pronounced a solemn exorcism against the insects. The insects rapidly disappeared, it was reported.

The following Holy Year, 1750, Pope Benedict XIV prohibited use of theater music in churches and began the reform for sacred music that was to lead later to a rich treasury of church music.

The streets of Rome were illuminated with lamp light for the first time during the 1775 Jubilee—one year before the American Revolution.

when Pope Pius XI—in 1925—called the 23rd Holy Year.

Eight years later, Pius XI called an extraordinary "Jubilee of the Redemption" to commemorate in 1933 the 19th centenary of the humble millions and the great who come to Rome in the 1950 Holy Year will walk on stones trod by princes, kings and emperors.

Dante, poet of heaven and hell, came from Florence for the first recorded holy year in 1300.

The poet Francis Petrarch lamented the state of the church during the 1350 Holy Year. Lucresia Borgia, of poison fame, then wife of Don Alfonso of Aragon, gave much attention to her religious practices during the eighth Jubilee in 1500.

The tenth Jubilee in 1550 found Saint Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Society of Jesus, helping the poor who came for the Holy Year. Michaelangelo, then an old man, participated.

Queen Catherine of Sweden gave up Lutheranism and returned to Rome for the 14th Jubilee just 300 years ago—in 1650—and died here.

Pilgrims of the past frequently had to run a gauntlet of bandits.

Whisky Goes Begging

WASHINGTON—(AP) — Policeman Bernard W. Best was testifying in a bootlegging case. Defense challenged his ability to recognize whisky. He asked Best to take a drink out of a bottle of evidence and tell him whether it was bourbon or rye.

"I can't," replied Best. "I'm on duty and regulations prohibit a policeman from drinking on duty."

"That's right," chimed in Judge Nadine Gallagher, "and besides, I don't want anyone drinking in my court."

SENATOR'S A SODA JERK—U. S. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota spends his time during the recess of Congress helping out in the family's drug store in Huron, S. D. Although a graduate pharmacist and a partner in the business, Humphrey also pitches in behind the soda fountain, where he is seen lending a hand (and a dishcloth) to Delores Timm.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP Foreign News Affairs Analyst

My office window in Rockefeller Center looks out on the great Christmas tree, covered with myriad lights and topped by the glowing Star of Bethlehem. Each time my eyes wander from their work they encounter this emblem of peace and goodwill.

Maybe that's why, as I look out my window while mulling over the unhappy squabble about the internationalization of Jerusalem, it's difficult to escape the feeling that this untimely problem is susceptible of solution by compromise. Failing that, we are heading for an uncomfortable time, since what happens to this Holy City is a matter of concern to the whole civilized world.

The position is this: The United Nations Assembly a few days ago voted to internationalize Jerusalem. A minority, including America and Britain, opposed the plan as impractical, since the city is partitioned and occupied by armed forces of Israel and of Hashemite Jordan.

Still at War
Jordan and Israel officially are still at war—a hangover from the Arab-Jewish warfare of 1947-48. Both have served firm notice that they won't give up their respective parts of the city, and just now Israel is rushing the transfer of her capital to her portion of Jerusalem. Of Israel's action the British foreign office has said:

"The move of the Israeli government does not surprise his majesty's government. At the same time we regret that Israel, which is a member of the U.N., should have thought fit to flout its authority."

At Lake Success some U. N. diplomats predict that Israel's action will wreck the General Assembly plan to put the city under international rule.

An Accomplished Fact
In any event, the partition of Jerusalem into two parts, one Jewish and the other Arab, is an accomplished fact. And it's going to take more than words—be they spoken either in peace or in anger—to alter that situation. All other things apart, both Jews and Arabs occupy their respective portions "by right of conquest"—an outgrowth of the late war.

Most of the holy places in the city are in the more ancient portion held by the Arabs. In this zone is the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the Mosque of Omar and the Jewish Wailing Wall. Nearby are the Garden of Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives. The Arabs also hold Bethlehem to the south.

Holy Places
Israel holds the Holy Cenacle—site of The Last Supper—which is just outside the old walled city. Israel also has Nazareth to the north of Jerusalem, and Cana of Galilee, where Christ performed his first miracle.

The way things now stand the trusteeship council of the U.N. will go ahead with the drafting of an international plan. What fate this may encounter remains to be seen. On this point a message from Tel Aviv to Lake Success quoted Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion as saying:

"It is to be hoped that the General Assembly will in the course of time correct this mistake which its majority has made, and will make no attempt whatsoever to impose a regime on the Holy City against the will of its people."

Greatest Political Struggle
Later Ben-Gurion declared in Jerusalem: "We have entered upon the greatest political struggle in the history of our people." Internationalization would be calculated to protect the holy places and keep them open to pilgrims from the outside world. Both Israel and Jordan have promised protection and access, and if the U.N. does change its mind it presumably will be on the basis of these promises.

SANTA CLAUS GETS AROUND—An Eskimo should be no novelty to Santa, but the one above—8-year-old Luther Neagoruk—Santa met in a Chicago department store. The Eskimo lad is a patient in a Chicago hospital. Hopping over to Los Angeles, right, above, Santa Claus met the Three Kings of the Orient, Latin version, who flew up from Mexico. The Wise Men, dressed in colorful robes, will give their gifts to Mexican children on Jan. 6.

Observers find it difficult to figure out any solution of the problem except a compromise. The consensus is that any idea of the U.N. using strong-arm methods to achieve its object is unthinkable.

Boyle's Column

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—(P)—Thinking of giving someone a book for Christmas?

It is a problem, isn't it? So much depends on the choice you make. For in the task of selection you are judging the one you give the book to—and you are judging yourself.

Every year Santa Claus gets in a blue funk over what books to give famous people. The truth is the old fellow's eyesight isn't what it once was. About the only things he reads anymore is a few back numbers of the old Police Gazette, because he has found he can skip the fine print under the pictures and not miss anything really important.

To help Saint Nick out of his annual quandary we compile a tentative list of books to give to the big and little folks on his Christmas roll call. Here's the 1949 list—and maybe it has a few ideas for you, too:

A Guide to Confident Living—Harry S. Truman.

The Mature Mind—Westbrook Pegler.

A Graveyard to Let—Guy George Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican national committee.

The Shaggy Man of Oz—John L. Lewis.

Effective Talking in Conference—Ditto.

The Man With the Golden Arm—John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

South Carolina Bird Life—Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes.

For "Cactus Jack"—Growing Roses—"Cactus Jack" Garner.

Stars in My Crown—Sam Goldwyn.

It's Fun to Retire—Herbert Hoover.

What Everyone Should Know About the Law—Ex-Rep. Andrew Jackson May of Kentucky.

Some Problems in Federal Taxation—Ex-Rep. J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey.

Beauty After Forty—Clark Gable.

Hypnotism of War Neurosis—the U. S. Navy.

The Show Must Go On—Ingrid Bergman.

Men Who Make Your World—Mae West.

Horses, Their Selection, Care and Handling—U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

For Municipal Department

Twilight on the Floods—The New York City Department of Water Supply, gas and electricity.

A Rage to Live—George Bernard Shaw.

I Married a Redhead—Aly Khan.

And So Farewell—Chiang Kai-Shek.

Way of a Fighter—Humphrey Bogart.

The Sinews of Peace—Gypsy Rose Lee.

To Every Man a Penny—The U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Point of No Return—Ditto.

One on the House—Conrad Hilton, who bought the Waldorf.

I Hear You Calling Me—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

California Finds

Tourists Like It
LOS ANGELES—(P)—Despite smog, tangled traffic and Mickey Cohen, the tourists who spend some $4,000,000.00 annually in Southern California are going home happy, says Don Thomas, director of the All-Year club.

He learned this by mailing tourist questionnaires after they returned home. The replies showed, he said, that the attractions offset any minor irritations.

"Southern California has drawn an average of 3,000,000 a year since the war," Thomas said. "This is nearly twice the prewar figure."

Conductor Draws Discord

WASHINGTON—(P)—Dr. Hans Kindler, former conductor of the Washington Symphony orchestra, requested in his will that he be buried "preferably on a hilltop."

"I definitely do not want my body to be handled by undertakers, nor to have it exposed after the second day. Just a few bandages will be sufficient," he wrote. For music at his funeral he wanted the slow movement of the Hydn Quartet in C major (the Gypsy), and "any of the better chorales of Bach."

When he died, his funeral was arranged by undertakers, and the music requested was not played. The Musical Art String Quartet, which he wanted to play, is no longer in existence.

Tipton

Mrs. E. N. Pizer

William A. Borders, vice-president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust company in St. Louis, in a recent letter to his friend in Tipton, O. J. Stratman, cashier of the Tipton Farmers bank, his letter reading in part as follows:

"Recently in San Francisco I visited the museum at the Wells Fargo bank and picked up the inclosed booklet which is most interesting.

"In the event you have not seen it, you may like to glance through it, especially because Tipton, Mo., is featured. It seems that in 1858 when the stage coaches first started at the West Coast, they began at Tipton, Mo. Next time you get to San Francisco be sure to see this museum if you have not already done so."

A section of the booklet which Mr. Stratman received from Mr. Borders, has this to say of Tipton:

"Impatient of the slow waterborne mails and treasure, San Francisco and the 'Mines' began early to clamor for an overland connection with the East. In 1858 John Butterfield, an associate of Wells, Fargo & Co., undertook the tremendous task. Politics dictated a southern course from Tipton, Missouri, across the desert to Los Angeles, thence to San Francisco. The long route was lined with difficulties. There were fortified stations to be planted amid hostile Indians . . . wells to be dug in the desert . . . heavy coaches to be piloted over 'natural' roads, scarcely more than trails. But in the fall of 1858 the first stages went through in 23 days. Butterfield had won. In 1861, when the Civil war forced his line north to the central route, via Salt Lake, he had his task largely to do over. Shortly after, the overland stage system became part of Wells Fargo & Co's growing business."

A former employer, J. W. (Billy) Mayhew, of Tipton, and a former employe Bill Corum of New York City, had a good time together in Boonville recently.

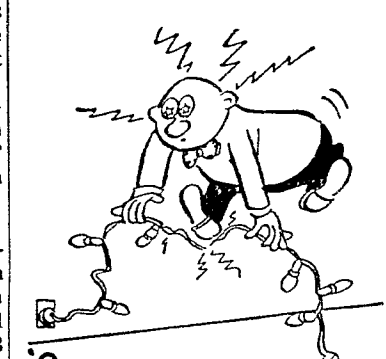

The occasion was the 30th annual dinner honoring Boonville's football teams, the High School Pirates and the Kemper Military School Yellowjackets, and the turkey banquet, served family style, was held in the dining room of the Kemper school under sponsorship of the Boonville Chamber of Commerce.

"Col." Bill Corum was the guest speaker for the evening. A native of Cooper county at Speed, he is a nationally-known sports authority. He is a writer on the New York Journal-American and a radio announcer. Recently he was elected president of Churchill Downs at Louisville, Ky. Some years back he was employed at

Dodge Dealer Previews New Model Automobile

The new Dodge cars which will be introduced January 4 will have a fresh styling appeal, new low body lines and many refinements in design, according to Ben Robinson, who has returned from a dealer preview meeting in Kansas City. Walter Coester and Bert Hathaway of the sales department and Forrest Yoder, service manager, also accompanied Mr. Robinson to the 1950 Dodge preview meeting.

Mr. Robinson said that pictures of the new Dodge cars, specifications and full details on body types will be released on December 27 and the new cars will be on display in his showroom on January 4.

"Dodge's production and retail deliveries this year have been the highest in Dodge history," he said. "We're confident of doing even better next year with the new improved models. They're beautiful cars. I personally believe they are the finest values we've ever had."

Mr. Robinson cordially invited everybody to his gala open house January 4 through 7.

Cactus Is A Stickler For Customs

SYDNEY —(P)— Mrs. Mabel Whitney kept a cactus growing at her Wembley, London, house all through World War II. Bombs blew tiles off the roof, and made a mess of the garden. But the cactus survived.

Mrs. Whitney, her husband, N. J. Whitney, and their daughter Joyce decided to move to Palmerston North, New Zealand. They left London by plane and took a cutting of their pet cactus with them. But they had to say goodbye to their cactus in Sydney. Customs men destroyed the cutting as a noxious plant.

Cactus — prickly pear here — caused big damage to Australian farming and grazing land by its rapid spread.

Grandma Moses Has A Runner-Up

SANTA MONICA, Calif. —(P)— Move over Grandma Moses. This seashore city has a painting Granny, too. Mrs. Alice Robbins, 90, who "never even thought of going in for art until a few weeks ago," has finished two canvases. And they aren't bad, say admiring local art fanciers.

The nonagenarian's first effort was a landscape copied from a post card, her second a hunting dog.

"I remember so well," she says, "how the dogs used to stand just like that when they pointed to prairie chickens in Minnesota."

Doctors' Center Saves Lives

DENVER —(P)— "My wife is running a fever and I want a doctor. Can you help me?" The caller was a man from Texas. Mrs. Lorene Davison thumbed through the files at the Denver Medical Society's referral center and gave him the name of a doctor.

The doctor went to the house and found the woman had polio. She was rushed to a hospital. Another day or two and she might have died.

The incident is typical of the 40 calls the center averages each day. Set up by the doctors a year ago, the center received 300 calls the first month. Now about 1,200 persons call each month.

Huntington, W. Va.—(AP)—Police finally got their mitts on a long-sought fugitive who escaped with 12 others last summer.

His mates had all been recap-tured shortly after their break for freedom from a railway express car on their way home from Flor-ida.

Six cops, four cruisers and a passerby converged on Number 13, after he was spotted in a tree five blocks from the downtown busi-ness district. Now Number 13, too, faces a gloomy future. The raccoon resumed his interrupted journey to a coon hunters' club at St. Alban's W. Va.
